ITALY DECLARES JULY 4 HOLIDAY.

Wilson to be Made Citizen at Florence; Celebration Throughout Empire.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Tuesday, June 25.—The coming Fourth of July, which will be proclaimed an Italian national holiday, will be celebrated throughout the country. Cities and villages will be decorated with the American and Italian flags.

The day will be marked in Florence by the granting of citizenship in that municipality to President Wilson. Other large cities will have processions. One of the most imposing will be in Rome, the line of march leading to the monument of King Victor Emmanuel II, where speeches will be delivered by Cabinet Ministers, Senators and Deputies.

One million lire for the support of needy families of Italian soldiers who participated in the victory against the Austrians, was given to the Italian Red Cross on behalf of the American Red Cross by Maj. THE GREAT WAR. American troops resume offensive northwest of Chateau Thierry and clear Germans from woods, taking 250 prisoners, many machine guns and other booty. The number of prisoners indicates that the fight may have been quite a notable affair.

Local operations are officially reported along both French and British fronts. Prisoners and machine guns were taken by both French and British although the operations were more in the nature of feelers for the coming offensive.

Military experts are anticipating the resumption of the German offensive at any minute. German reserves are reported maneuvering in the rear areas and the Germans' greatest effort may soon be launched. The German is believed to be deciding on which of three objectives he will strike; Paris, the junction of the British and French armies or the channel ports.

Italians have perfected their line along the Piave and have begun operations in the mountain sectors. On northwest slopes of Monte Grappa, between the Brenta and the Piave, the Italians have gained ground and captured 1500 prisoners. Strong raids are being carried out on the Asiago plateau.

In completing capture of western bank of Piave the Italians added 1600 prisoners to the already large number taken.

Field Marshal Haig reports capture of prisoners and machine guns by raids on Flanders and Picardy fronts.

The battlefield along the Piave is a vast Austrian cemetery with thousands of unburied corpses lying in every direction. The Austrians' total loss for their ill-starred attempt is now placed above a quarter of a million with many of Charles's crack divisions literally cut to pieces.

German People Terrified by Thought of Shouldering War Burden Alone.

Entire Dual Monarchy Slowly Starving to Death, Swiss Hear.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

THE HAGUE, June 25.—Authoritative information from a recent arrival from Germany indicates that the morale there is greatly affected by the bad news from Austria, where they are expecting to hear of a revolution any day. The people feel that it will be up to them alone to shoulder the consequences of the war and this has a terrifying effect.

The spirit of depression is very strong among the middle and military classes, as everyone now believes that there will be another winter campaign with all the attendant misery. Large posters, some illustrated, some printed, are exhibited to encourage the people and show them German victories, but the public no longer reads them. Anxiety is omnipresent, showing even during the rejoicing. At present very little is allowed to appear in the German press about the Austrian and Hungarian uprising, but when the Germans realize the full significance of the Austrian troubles and the failure of the offensive as well as the large numbers of American troops already on the west front the depression is likely to increase considerably.

The hope in victory has receded appreciably, as victory and peace were promised within a few months after the opening of the present offensive. Meantime, according to news from Duesseldorf, the condition of the population grows worse daily, and although sufficient additional food is distributed to the workmen, the entire lack of fats is telling on the digestion. The morale has weakened greatly and bulletins announcing victories are no longer believed. It is a current saying that to save the Hohenzollerns, all the men in Germany must be sacrificed. According to information from Baden, smallpox has broken out to a serious extent. A good harvest is hoped for, and an increase in rations as the result. The wheat and potato crops promise well. In certain parts of the country there are still a great number of cattle, in other parts they are scarce.

The raising of pigs has been greatly developed. The flour used for bread is better than that used last year and the people say it is even better and whiter than the bread in Holland. In the Rhine provinces only five bakeries out of every 100 are working. This is in order to save fuel and raw material. The remaining bakers who are not working receive bread for customers from the five bakers who work. Even Belgian children are forced to work at the railway stations in Germany.

WHOLE NATION STARVES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 26.—The internal situation in Austria-Hungary continues to be disturbed intensely, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail at Annemasse, on the Franco-Swiss frontier, who claims to have authentic sources of information. Under date of Monday, he says the strikes in Hungary are extending. The telegraph and postoffice are working badly.

The unrest, he says, generally has a Bolshevik and anti-military character. Innumerable deserters from the army are taking part and in certain parts of the country these men are arming robber bands. In Budapest a revolutionary strike is in progress.

The food question in Austria has not improved and the correspondent says it is not improbable, despite Germany's help, that the entire country is slowly starving.

TROOPS IN BOHEMIA.

GERMANS MASS RESERVE FOR GREATEST EFFORTS.

Renewal of Offensive on Western Front Momentarily Expected.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

LONDON, June 26.—The Chronicle says important events are developing at the western front. German reserves are being cunningly maneuvered into position for the new offensive but it is impossible to say in which sector the attack will develop. The situation is well in hand and the Allied armies are stated to be confident and unbroken.

GREATEST OFFENSIVE OF WAR EXPECTED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Germany's greatest offensive against the Anglo-French armies is momentarily expected by military men here. An authority at the War Department, discussing the military outlook today, said:

"Germany's heaviest blow is about to fall. She intends that it shall be a winner. She has any of three definite objectives and may be looked to to throw her full strength in the new offensive, with the determination of breaking through.

"The three objectives are the channel ports, the junction of the British and French armies, and Paris. The one she elects to strike for probably will be determined by the Allies themselves. The partial evacuation of Paris and inclusion of that city within the military zone may indicate that the French expect Paris to be the object of attack. The British very likely have a similar feeling about the channel ports.

"The three previous offensives of the Germans this year have tried out the three so-called vital spots in the Allied lines in France and Flanders. It is logical to expect one of them to be attacked again, but the one to be attacked will be the one where the Germans believe they will meet the least resistance and can break through with a minimum of losses.

"Germany has meditated a decisive offensive irrespective of the Austrian disaster. The latter, however, would confirm her resolution rather than weaken it, but it also confirms the assurances felt by the Allies that the Germans will not be able to attain their objective."

Following Up.

ITALIAN OFFENSIVE DUE; NEW PERILS TO AUSTRIA.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

PARIS, June 26.—It was reported here this morning that the Austrian defeat resulted in a much larger number of prisoners than the official communiques yet have disclosed. One statement is to the effect that in the last two days alone not less than 10,000 Austrians were taken captives. The Italian victory is now recognized as incontestible as that of the Marne and there are high hopes here it will lead to a whole series of further happy results.

Most of the Paris papers speculate as to how far the Italians will be able to exploit their triumphs. Joseph Reinach in Figaro urges the Allies to follow the method of striking where the adversary is weakest and drive against Austria with all their force while she is torn with internal troubles and utterly disorganized at the front.

Another critic points out that the Austrian retreat will be disastrous if now resolutely followed up by the victorious Italians.

Eight miles beyond the Piave the routed army will have to cross the Livenza and the Lemena rivers, which most probably are now at full flood, while a little farther back is the Tagliamento, an important stream which will be difficult to cross by the defeated and demoralized Austrians.

Further, for over twenty miles along the coast between the Piave and the Tagliamento, are broad marshes, averaging over seven miles wide, which may expose the Austrians to disaster if they are not already prepared with good defensive positions.

It is generally believed here that the Italians from a spirit of solidarity with the rest of the Allies, must not confine themselves to mere local actions but squarely take the offensive with a view to a decisive victory over the Austrians.

It is underlined here also that the Austrian defeat must be regarded as a terrible blow to the Germans since it now is believed it was she who insisted inexorably the Austrians should take the offensive in order to relieve the pressure on the French front, and this despite the Austrian plea to be allowed to mark time until after harvest in view of the critical political and food position at home.

It is also recalled here that Foch spent some weeks in Italy during the retreat to the Piave, when the Austrians, aided by the German armies, under Otto von Buelow, believed themselves the masters of the whole of Venitia. Foch believed the Piave a strong line of defense, which events proved it to be.

Opinion here inclines to the belief that the effect of the Austrian debacle will be to make the Germans more likely than ever to resume the offensive on the French front in order to try to force a final decision as soon as possible.

ADMISSION OF FAILURE TO WIN ALARMS GERMANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, June 26 (Havas Agency.)—Acknowledgement of Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann that Germany cannot be certain of winning the war by force of arms caused an indescribable sensation in the Reichstag, says a Zurich dispatch to the Petit Journal. His prediction that the war might last through a fifth winter was received in silence and there was much consternation among the members of the Right. The debate which followed the Foreign Secretary's speech was very stormy, Pan-Germanist speeches being interrupted by the Left.

A dispatch from Geneva says that exchange on Berlin and Vienna weakened on the receipt of the Secretary's speech. The mark fell 2.60 and the crown 1.05. Allied exchange continued firm.

NO MORE DISCUSSION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, June 26. — There will be no further discussion of President Wilson's four principles of a basis for general peace by Count von Hertling, the imperial German Chancellor.

This announcement was made by the Chancellor in the Reichstag in the debate after the speech of Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann. Proposal of a league of nations after the war is not looked upon with favor by Count von Hertling, who intimated that such a league might make it uncomfortable for Germany.

BULLETINS.

BASLE, June 26.—A rumor has reached here from Berlin that Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German Foreign Secretary, will resign his portfolio.

PARIS, June 27.—German airplanes penetrated the anti-aerial defenses of Paris Wednesday night and several bombs were dropped, causing material damage, says an official statement issued early today.

LONDON, June 26.—There is no foundation for the persistent rumors that Nicholas Romanoff, the former Emperor, has been assassinated, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow dated June 21.

AMERICANS' DASH WINS

German Prisoners Pay Tribute.

Notably Brilliant Operation is Carried Out by Our Forces on Marne.

Rush is Irresistible and Hundreds of Prisoners are Captured.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, June 26.—American troops on the Marne front again attacked the Germans last night in the Belleau Wood sector. The Americans made an irresistible rush for the complete clearing of the wood, in which it was discovered yesterday the Germans were still occupying a small strip of the underbrush.

The attack was preceded by a thirteen-hour bombardment from the American artillery.

German prisoners taken pay tribute to the brilliant dash of the Americans, declaring the men in the assaulting party fought like demons.

The Germans were virtually cleared out of Belleau Wood several days ago, but the discovery was made yesterday that under cover of darkness they had planted machine guns behind huge boulders, in sunken roadways, in shell holes and in trees in a narrow area on the edge of the wood.

FIGHT HAND-TO-HAND.

It was most difficult to get at them in these positions, and some fierce hand-to-hand fighting occurred during the night while the clearing process was being carried out.

In an attack upon the German lines on the Marne front last night the American troops extended their line northwest of Belleau Wood. Additional prisoners are coming in.

The Americans now are in possession of virtually all the valuable tactical positions in the Belleau Wood sector. Most of the prisoners taken belong to the Three Hundred and Forty-seventh German division.

On Sunday the Germans placed the crack Two Hundred and First division opposite a portion of the American line. Despite this the Americans went through in steam roller fashion.

The Germans also had attempted on Saturday to fill the wood with gas, but the determination and heroism of the Americans could not be checked by this circumstance.

BIG GUNS ACTIVE.

The American artillery again brilliantly carried out its part in throwing the entire German line into confusion. Prisoners said that the position from which they had been taken was like an inferno under the American fire. They were happy to get out alive.

German prisoners captured by the Americans on storming the Belleau Wood section last night now number 250, including seven officers. One of the officers said the German commanders have been telling the soldiers that the Germans have landed an army in America, captured New York and are now marching towards Philadelphia. The Germans also are told that submarines have sunk between forty and fifty ships in Long Island Sound.

The importance of the American advance in Belleau Wood is not indicated by the amount of territory captured, as that only amounts approximately to 500 square yards. The new positions of the Americans, however, dominate the ridge beyond, so that they now hold the upper hand.

ARROGANT CAPTAIN.

A German officer, arrogant and sarcastic, remarked: "We are just starting with the Americans. We are going to wipe out whole divisions as if they were companies."

The German privates were less arrogant, and apparently were glad they were captured. One declared that the Germans were surprised at the Americans, who appeared so young, but fought like devils when they got started. Another declared: "The war will soon be ended. There are too many Americans coming to Europe."

This prisoner was a Prussian, who fought on the Russian front. He confessed that the Germans were preparing to attack the Americans in Belleau Wood. When the American troops started their attack. It was a surprise affair. The Americans came one way, and the German officers tried to force their men forward the other way. This prisoner was shot in the leg by his own officer because he hesitated confusedly between the American guns and bayonets and the pistols in the hands of the German officers.

WILSON SENDS DIAZ THANKS.

Great Blow Struck for World, President Tells Italian Commander.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—President Wilson today sent a cablegram to Gen. Diaz, commanding the Italian army, congratulating him upon the victory over the Austrians and saying America feels a great blow has been struck, not only for Italy, but for the world.

The President's message follows:

"Please accept my warm congratulations on the splendid successes of the armies under your command. The whole spirit of America acclaims the achievement, and feels that a very great blow has been struck for the liberties not only of Italy, but of the world."

ON WEST FRONT.

BRILLIANT AMERICAN BLOW.

While the Italians have been busily engaged in cleaning up the Piave battle front, gathering together the spoils of war and making straggling Austrians prisoner, the American troops stationed in the Belleau Wood northwest of Chateau Thierry have been devoting their time to clawing the Germans again the fighting timber of which there are made.

In the demonstration the Americans gained control of the wood in its entirety, advanced their position materially northwest of the wood and made prisoner of 264 of the enemy, in addition to inflicting heavy losses in men killed or wounded.

FIRE STUNS GERMANS.

The attack was launched Tuesday night with the purpose of driving out the few remaining nests of Germans in the wood—nests from which enemy parties constantly were harassing the Americans. It followed a hurricane of artillery fire, the intensity of which stunned even those of the Germans who previously had gone through the terrific drumfires of the British and French.

The hammering of the guns was kept up for thirteen hours before the infantry set out to accomplish its task, and the havoc wrought by the American shells, many of them of high explosives, was evident from the number of enemy dead strewing the ground and the state of general demolition that prevailed.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

The capture of Belleau Wood is of considerable strategic importance, owing to the fact that from it the Germans had been able to rake the Allied positions on all sides of it with their artillery. Its eastern and northern edges also command the railroad behind the German lines running to Chateau Thierry.

Seemingly the chase of the enemy on the eastern bank of the river has ended at least for the time being. In the mountain heavy bombardments are in progress in various sectors and intensive aerial operations are going on along the entire front.

The Rome War Office reasserts that all the artillery lost by the Italians to the Austrians in the initial stage of the fighting has been recaptured.

On the battle front in France and Flanders the operations continue of a minor character.

TROCADERO NOW AVENUE WILSON.

Famous Paris Thoroughfare is Rechristened with Name of the President.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, June 26.—The municipal council of Paris today voted unanimously that the Avenue Trocadero should henceforth bear the name of President Wilson. It was also decided that the name plates should be in place before the Fourth of July.

The Rue de Luxembourg was rechristened the Rue Guynemer, after Capt. George Guynemer, the famous French aviator who was killed in an aerial battle last September.

The council, in honoring President Wilson, suspended one of its own regulations forbidding the use of names of living persons in naming streets.

PANIC OVER THE RHINE.

People Flee from River Towns.

Enormous Destruction Caused in Cologne and Mannheim by Sky-bombs.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

THE HAGUE, June 25.—According to absolutely authoritative information received here both from reliable reports from Germany and from statements made by neutrals it is perfectly clear the effect of the recent Allied air raids into Germany, especially at Cologne and Mannheim, had an excellent effect from the Entente viewpoint.

In the recent air raid on Cologne the bombs fell on electric trams and three cars were absolutely pulverized. More than 140 houses were either destroyed or seriously damaged. The station also was badly damaged by bombs.

According to an official report 298 people were killed and 464 wounded. The Neumarkt suffered most from the explosion of four large bombs. Another bomb fell on the Groenmarkt, killing and wounding forty-nine persons. Another bomb hit a house, practically blowing the contents and people out of it and killing and wounding some dozen people. One of the heaviest bombs dropped in the Rhine about ten yards from the main railway bridge.

All information tends to show the air raids as having the most demoralizing effect on the German population. The people are becoming more and more frightened of the Allied airplanes. News of the attacks spread immediately in spite of every precaution taken by the authorities to prevent it. Fugitives from the neighborhoods which have been attacked always succeeded in slipping through the police cordons and spreading terror abroad by the tales of the awful devastation.

Everything is done to hide all traces of damage as quickly as possible. The authorities post notices denying the rumors that are being circulated, but the people no longer believe them. Considerable numbers of people have left Cologne through fear of air raids. There are always squadrons of twenty airplanes ready to attack the Allied aviators, but the factories are not especially defended against raids. Successes at the front were joyously celebrated in Cologne by the younger people, but the older ones, especially the women, wept, saying, "Our turn will come next."

SCAN HORIZON.

In the midst of the crowd could be seen many people looking anxiously and scanning the horizon with opera glasses for airplanes. There is a most serious striving on the part of the authorities to hide the real conditions from the people in Germany in the same manner that everything is being done not to let the people realize the number of American troops on the west front.

This concealment is the most cheerful sign. It is self-evident to any person who has studied the question of Boche mentality that the best chance of finishing the war speedily is continual heavy air raids into Germany by Allied bombing squadrons. Up to the present these raids have been sporadic and not endemic, but all information goes to confirm the opinion that should the raids become endemic the war would practically be won.

PEOPLE IN PANIC.

The state of panic in Cologne and other Rhine towns is still intense, and the mere rumor of the approach of Allied machines makes the workmen run for shelter and refuse to work during the rest of the day. The worst measures the Allies could pos-

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILAN, June 25.—From the Montello upland to San Dona the whole countryside is one vast cemetery and in many places thousands of unburied corpses render the air unbreathable. Throughout this district there are no longer any Austrians other than dead, wounded and prisoners, but from San Dona seaward strenuous fighting, according to the latest reports, is still going on because the width of the river and the insidious nature of the current thereabouts add to the difficulties of the Austrian retreat.

Taking advantage of this situation, the Italian cavalry regiments have been brought into play, and in furious charges are punishing fugitives with their swords. At Campo Junge, south of Benson, their mighty onrush, overwhelming resistance, brought them to the very pontoons crowded with Austrians about to cross. The Italian infantry and cyclist Bersaglieri following in their wake destroyed the passageway, taking many prisoners.

It is estimated the Austrian losses now approximate a quarter of a million men.

IRONZO ARMY LOSSES.

The Austrian Isonzo army, which on the eve of battle was augmented by from three to four army corps—about fifteen divisions—had lost 80,000 combatants by Saturday evening. Its Ninth, Twelfth and Seventy-seventh divisions each counted 5000 in dead, wounded and missing. One regiment was reduced to 262 men. Ten among their best fighting regiments and divisions of the Sebutsen Honved and Feldjager were cut utterly to pieces. At the same time Austrian officers themselves reckoned above 40,000 men hors du combat in their Sixth Army fronting Monfello, while the losses incurred in the subsequent catastrophe of the retreat are unknown with any sort of precision. Hundreds of bodies have been carried out to sea.

The general commanding the Ninety-first Schutzen Brigade was found near Modjo with his brains blown out, having killed himself amid the piled-up corpses of his forces, annihilated after a valiant resistance.

PRISONERS RECOVERED.

Many Italian prisoners and wounded have been recovered lying famished and untended in caves and abandoned houses, despoiled of all personal belongings, even to their boots and clothes. The body of a gallant Italian aviator, Maj. Barraco, was found beside his burnt machine at the foot of Montello. He had shot himself with a revolver to avoid capture.

Allied airmen have detected the Austrians busy on the west bank of the river moving some miles inland in prodigious array of artillery, amounting to some 3000 pieces, with which they began the battle of the Piave. The well-known Italian war correspondent, Luigi Barzini, sounds a warning note today, his conviction being that since the retreat was dictated by the imperative reasons of pure military strategy, the Austrian command probably contemplates concentrating in the near future its maximum forces and its mountain sectors. Hence it would be a dangerous mistake to overrate the significance of the defensive victory already gained by imagining Austria incapable of further considerable effort.

WAR OFFICE STATEMENTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, June 26.—Italian troops on the southern part of the Piave front have not only completely reoccupied the Capo Sile bridgehead, but have extended it and held the gain against Austrian counter-attacks. The extension was effected yesterday. During the fighting nearly 800 prisoners were taken. The War Office made this announcement today.

On the remainder of the front the fighting was confined to artillery duels and patrol actions.

The statement says:

"Yesterday our troops, having completely reoccupied the bridgehead at Capo Sile, extended it, provoking and firmly sustaining resolute counter-attacks by numerous enemy forces. Eight officers and 371 of other ranks were captured.

"On the remainder of the front there were artillery duels of not very great intensity and activity by small parties.

"Between Mori and Loppio one of our assault patrols surprised and destroyed an enemy advanced post, capturing the survivors.

"Our airmen dropped several tons of bombs on enemy ammunition dumps on the Venetian Plain and on railway establishments at Mattarello.

"Seven hostile machines were brought down. Lieut. Flavio Baracchini obtained his thirty-first victory.

"In the clearing up of the battlefield a few hundred additional prisoners were taken.

"The complete recapture of all our artillery, arms and material has been ascertained. Only after long statistical work will it be possible to establish the enormous quantity of Austrian arms and material which remained in our hands."

BRITISH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 26.—German prisoners and machine guns were taken by the British last night on the Picardy and Flanders battlefields, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today. On these two fronts the enemy artillery fire was active.

The statement continues:

"We captured a few prisoners and machine guns last night in raids and patrol encounters in the neighborhood of Sailly-le-Sec (Picardy) and west of Merville (Flanders.) The hostile artillery has been active in the neighborhood of Ville-sur-Ancre and Gommecourt and on the Bailleul-Hasebrouck sector.

"Beyond artillery activity on both sides in the different sectors," Field Marshal Haig announces from headquarters in France tonight, "there is nothing of special interest to report."

German cities and towns on the easterly side of the Rhine have been subjected to raids by British aerial squadrons, according to a statement on aerial operations issued by the War Office today. The statement reads:

"On the morning of June 5 attacks were carried out by our bombing squadrons on the railway sidings and factories at Saarbrucken, the engine sheds and barracks at Offenburg and the explosives factory and railway station at Karlsruhe. Many direct hits were observed.

"In the course of many attacks by hostile airplanes on our machines, two of the enemy were shot down and two others were forced to land out of control. Three of our machines are missing. One of them is known to have been forced to land inside the enemy lines because of engine trouble."

The official communication dealing with aviation issued this evening says:

"In air fighting ten enemy airplanes were destroyed and four forced down out of control. Seven of our machines are missing."

FRENCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, June 26. — American troops carried out a brilliant attack near Belleau Wood last night, capturing 150 prisoners, one of whom was a captain, according to a statement issued by the War Office today.

The French carried out a number of raids during the night, the statement adds, in the regions of Mailly-Raineval (in the Somme sector,) Melicocq (west of the Oise,) Vinly (north of the Clignon River and northwest of Chateau Thierry) and at Mont Carnillet (east of Rheims,) capturing prisoners and machine guns.

The statement reads:

"The French carried out a number of raids during the night at Mailly-Raineval, Melicocq, Vinly, Mont Carnillet and in Lorraine. Prisoners and machine guns were taken.

"New German attacks against small posts north of Lepart (west of Soissons) were repulsed.

"American troops carried out a brilliant operation during the night near Belleau Wood. One hundred and fifty prisoners, one of whom is a captain, have already been counted."

The text of the statement reads:

"Northwest of Montdidier we carried out a raid north of Grivesnes and inflicted losses on the enemy and took prisoners.

"The number of prisoners captured by the Americans in the course of their operation last night in the neighborhood of Belleau Wood was 264.

"On June 25 twenty-two enemy machines were brought down or forced to land in a damaged condition. Three drachens were burned. Our bombing planes in the night and day dropped more than seventeen tons of projectiles on aviation grounds, bivouacs, cantonments and ammunition depots in the battle zone. Explosions and fires were observed."

GERMAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) June 26.—The German official communication issued by the War Office today says:

"Fighting activity revived intermittently between the Avre and the Marne. West of the Oise we captured ten machine guns in foreield engagements. A partial attack launched by the enemy northwest of Chateau Thierry was repulsed.

"North of the Rhine-Marne Canal Bavarian Landwehr troops penetrated French positions northwest of Bures and brought back two officers and forty men prisoners.

"South of the Scarpe the British attacked yesterday morning on wide sectors near Fenchy and Neuville Vitasse. They were thrown back by a counter-attack. In neighboring sectors their attack broke down under our fire.

"In the evening the artillery activity was revived on nearly the whole of the front between Arras and Albert and on both sides of the Somme. It continued lively during the night. The enemy advanced several times in strong reconnaissances, but was repulsed and left prisoners in our hands."

AUSTRIAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA (via London) June 26.—The official report from general headquarters today says:

"On the fronts west of the Adige, fighting activity has been lively the past few days. On the Zugna ridge we repulsed strong thrusts initiated by vigorous gunfire, with heavy enemy losses.

"On the Asiago Plateau and between the Brenta and the Piave yesterday was quieter. The bitter struggle of June 24 ended in a complete failure for the Italians, which was most perceptible in the disputed regions of Asolone and Monte Pertica. Our detachments, pursuing the enemy, captured several sectors of his front line. The Italian efforts to recapture the ground they lost on June 15 sanguinarily failed."

The latest official report from Austrian headquarters, in declaring that "Italian efforts to recapture the ground they lost on June 15 sanguinarily failed," constitutes a denial of the claims made by the Italian War Office and is contrary to the facts as cabled from the Italian front by the Associated Press correspondents and the special representatives of the various newspapers who have followed the operations since the beginning.

Virtually all the reports from the Italian front have described the recent operations as a great victory for the Italian arms, with the Austrians, panic-stricken, beating a hasty retreat beyond the east bank of the Piave.

The Austrian official communication makes no mention of the Italian attacks between the Brenta and Piave, which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy forces and resulted in the capture of many hundreds of Austrians beyond the mere assertion that conditions in that territory yesterday were "appreciably quieter."

INFLUENZA CRIPPLES ARMIES OF GERMANY.

ENTIRE WESTERN FRONT AFFECTED AND OFFENSIVE PLANS ARE HAMPERED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 26.—Influenza is now epidemic all along the German front, according to advices received here from the Dutch frontier, and the prevalence of this ailment is said to be hampering the preparations for offensive operations.

Special hospitals are being established in the rear areas dealing solely with this disease, which is reported to be of the new Spanish type, which recently broke out in Berlin and other German cities, and is presumed to have been brought to the trenches by men returning from leave.

WOULD MERGE STATE CHARITABLE BOARDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 26.—A committee of San Francisco residents representing the Associated Charities and kindred organisations of that city appeared before the State Board of Control here today and advanced a plan by which the State Board of Charities and Correction would be merged with the Bureau of Children's Agent Work.

Appointment of a board of public welfare to have charge of all children's charity or welfare work in the State would follow. It was suggested that two or more members of the board be ex-officio.

The Board of Control took the matter under advisement.

ITALIANS NOW FIGHT IN THE HIGHER ALPS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, June 26.—In the higher Alps there are evidences of renewed activity.

Italian Alpinists, surprising the enemy on the summit of Cavello, 10,500 feet high, in the Tomale region, took sixty prisoners and captured several machine guns.

"North of Monte Grappa detachments of the Fourth Army, after violent artillery and machine-gun preparation, made thrusts and secured advantages despite severe enemy resistance."

HIGHEST POINT OF ADVERTISING MAINTAINED BY THE TIMES.

The best index of a newspaper's advertising prestige, and of the producing qualities of its advertising space to its patrons, is the extent which it leads its contemporaries in the volume of advertising printed.

On Sunday, June 23, a total of 16,913 inches of advertising was printed in Los Angeles newspapers, of which volume The Times printed 8607 inches.

ADVERTISING RECORD OF LOS ANGELES' NEWSPAPERS FOR JUNE 23, 1918.

TOTAL ADVERTISING

The Times	8,607 inches
The second newspaper	4,917 "
The third newspaper	3,394 "

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

HORSE MEAT IN VIENNA FOUR DOLLARS A POUND.

BY GEORGE RENWICK.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

AMSTERDAM, June 26. — Market reports and official figures published in Vienna show that the meat ration of four-fifths of a pound can only be obtained by a portion of the population, especially by those who care to stand all night for it. Meat supplies in the market only amount to one-third of those available a few months ago.

Last week more than 500 horses were slaughtered in Vienna for food. For that the people had to pay $4 a pound. Fruit and vegetable supplies are hopelessly inadequate.

The press has shown no disposition to make such facts known to its readers.

As regards the food situation in Austria, the German press certainly did not make the situation nearly as black as it is. It is noteworthy that at first the German and Hungarian authorities refused help. Twenty-four hours later, they were busy rushing supplies to Austria.

The German press, as a matter of fact, made light of the whole situation in this respect and said Vienna was still eating cake while Germany could hardly get bread. It declared meat plentiful and blamed bad organisation for the trouble which supervened.

In reality, the Austrian bread ration is something less than three ounces per head per day, less than half the German ration.

food situation which was unanimously recognized as critical, was discussed. Emperor Charles announced that he was personally addressing Emperor William in connection with that situation.

BAHNHAUS SUGGESTED.

Premier Von Seydler proposed as his successor Herr Bahnhaus, considering him a man who would be able to rely upon a majority in Parliament during the transition period.

Emperor Charles thereupon invited Herr Bahnhaus to begin negotiations with the various parties on the basis of the convocation of the chamber, with a restricted programme for its proceedings.

The statesman asked by Emperor Charles to essay the task of forming a Cabinet probably is the Minister of Railways in the Von Seydler Cabinet, Baron Bahnhaus. Vienna newspapers recently indicated that he might receive the appointment.

MILLIONS IN SIERRA MINES IN LITIGATION.

INJUNCTION GRANTED AGAINST SIXTEEN-TO-ONE COMPANY IN NEW SUIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Circuit Judge William H. Hunt, sitting in the Federal District Court, today, granted the Twenty-one Mining Company a preliminary injunction restraining the original Sixteen-to-One Mining Company from entering into or occupying any portion of the Belmont and Valentine quartz lode mining claims. These claims belong to the former company, and are located in Sierra county.

The court set July 6 as the date on which cause should be shown why the injunction should not be made permanent.

This is a new suit filed as a result of an action brought against the Twenty-one Mining Company by the Sixteen-to-One company, and decided in favor of the plaintiff company on November 1, 1917, which involved ownership of these and other claims.

The judgment at this time was given in favor of the Sixteen-to-One company in excess of $100,000, but subsequently was thrown out of court.

The value of the properties of the two concerns runs into the millions of dollars.

ROTARY CLUBS URGE COMPULSORY TRAINING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—A resolution pledging "hearty and unqualified support of the principle of universal obligatory military training for all young men before the voting age" was unanimously adopted at the ninth annual convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs here today.

The resolution further sets forth that the existing cantonments should be used for training purposes and that such a plan, as a permanent national policy, will "regenerate our young manhood mentally and physically and unify our diverse citizenship."

sibly take in their own interests would be to accept the propcsal which may be made that air raids behind the front on both sides should cease. The Huns will stand any amount of punishment at the front while en masse, but neither the military nor the civil population are capable of supporting anything like heavy air raids for long. Persons who know feel confident that if our bombing operations were extended from Cologne and Frankfort to other large towns in the Rhine provinces, especially on Essen, the result would be magnificent, notwithstanding the fact that the Allies might possibly lose large numbers of machines.

An attack on Berlin, if such was possible, would probably have as much effect on Germany as an absolute defeat on the western front.

HUNS DRIVEN FROM WOODS.

of the advance, describing the operations, said:

"We took up a position in the open wood; there were no trenches. The Germans opened a heavy fire, and shells fell around us like rain. We charged over the rocky hill, our fellows laughing and yelling a war whoop. We then came upon a wheat field and crossed in the face of a withering shell and machine-gun fire, and drove back the Germans at the point of the bayonet.

"It was a wonderful sight. The Americans never hesitated, and the sound of their shouts and whoops was almost drowned by the Germans' cries of 'Kamerad.'

"The Germans got a few of our fellows, but we made them pay dearly for every one."

Herbert E. Bartles of Anita, Iowa, told about a wounded American forcing a big German to lead the way to the rear of the American lines. When they reached the lines the American said quietly: "Here's my prisoner." The German sheepishly nodded and said, "Yah."

Some idea of the thoroughness with which the Americans prepared for the attack may be gleaned from the fact that they fired approximately 5000 high explosives in one hour. The American gunners worked so fast the Germans said they did not have time to think. The German lines were torn up and the ground around strewn with German dead and wounded. Two members of a German hospital corps were captured.

Machine-gun emplacements, which were hidden behind the rocks, were charged and captured, while a group of several Americans captured one machine gun and twenty Germans in a shell hole. The attacking force was a comparatively small one, but did the work as thoroughly as one several times as large might have done.

One of the American wounded remarked to the correspondent:

"I got bumped pretty badly, but I guess it was worth while. If we had a million more like our outfit over here we would go to Berlin."

TWO BATTALIONS ATTACK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, June 25.—The raid Monday morning in which two companies of French and American troops near Badonviller lost prisoners was made by an entire battalion of German troops. The official statement issued Tuesday in Berlin said:

"The number of American and French prisoners brought in yesterday morning east of Badonviller has increased to more than sixty."

HUN ROUT A HORROR.

Austrian Losses of Over 200,000.

Maddened Enemy Tries in Vain to Flee Deluge of Italian Bullets.

Bodies of Teuton Troops are Mowed Down Almost in Their Entirety.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Tuesday, June 25.—Under the fire of Italian machine guns and artillery, which were brought up rapidly, the Austrian withdrawal across the Piave soon became a disorderly rout. It is estimated the Austrian losses total more than 200,000.

It was a terrible sight as the maddened Austrians fled under the deluge of Italian bullets and shells. They leaped into the river and grabbed pieces of wood or anything that would aid them; they tied themselves to mules and horses but their efforts were in vain, for, as the enemy troops reached the opposite bank, they were again caught by the fire of the Italian guns which had been trained accurately on the eastern bank for some days.

On the Montello the slaughter was terrific. Bodies of the Austrian troops were mowed down almost in their entirety. At the crossing at Nervesa both banks of the river were strewn with dead and dying while hundreds of bodies were carried down in the current to the sea.

At one place the correspondent counted 100 bodies while walking a distance of half a mile. One regiment of covering troops, which originally was composed of more than 2000 men, had left Monday but eighty-eight men to the company and these were prisoners.

Along the lower Piave the Austrians found themselves, if possible, in a worse position and sustained heavier losses.

FIGHT LIKE WILD MEN.

A single episode shows how and why the retreat started. On Saturday the Austrian command sent the Ninety-first Schuetzen Brigade, composed of regiments Nos. 31 and 32, with orders to widen the Austrian breach at Lampol and to do this at all hazards. The brigade attempted to carry out this order and fought like wild men, but the Italian troops were so terrific that they were unable to accomplish their object, which was to succor the Austrian divisions already surrounded in this section.

After six attacks, which continued Saturday night and Sunday morning, there remained at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon only ninety men of this brigade. The others were either prisoners, wounded or dead. The commanding officer then committed suicide and the ninety surrendered.

In fleeing, the Austrians left behind them much war material. The enemy troops even threw away their rifles and deserted hundreds of machine guns which were to have been used to protect the retirements.

It is estimated that the number of Austrians on the western bank of the Piave when the retreat began was over 100,000.

LOSSES FIFTY PER CENT.

Among sixteen prisoners taken on Montello it was observed that they belonged to no less than seven different regiments.

Prisoners report that serious losses were caused by the Italian artillery, trench bombs and machine guns. The Thirteenth Schuetzen division is reported to have lost fifty men from each company on an average.

From the first day of the offensive Italian morale was of the highest among both the troops and the Italian civilian population. Venice appeared to be little concerned over the fact that the enemy was striking in her direction only twenty miles away. Today, however, Venice awoke to celebrate the Italian victory.

CAPTURES NOW 18,000.

With the capture yesterday of between 2500 and 3000 prisoners, the total captures by the Italian forces during their counter offensive are brought up to the neighborhood of 18,000 men.

Many pitiable sights were witnessed by the Italians during their advance over the shell-swept battle ground. Frequently they would come upon their own men who had been taken prisoner and abandoned by the Austrians in their retreat. Many of these were wounded, but virtually all were stripped of their shoes and all their clothing.

DUKE'S ARMY ADVANCING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Monday, June 24.—The Duke of Aosta's Third Army continued to advance along the Piave front in the Capo Sile region, clearing the positions abandoned by the Austrians, picking up the abandoned war materials, burying the masses of dead and reorganizing the entire defense system, which had been badly cut up during the last ten days.

SIXTY MILLIONS PAID ON INCOMES IN STATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Income and excess profits tax collections for the First California District exceeded $60,000,000 yesterday, the last day before a penalty of 5 per cent. is added, according to an announcement made today by Director of Internal Revenue J. S. Wardell.

From this date on 1 per cent. will be added for each additional month delinquent taxes are left unpaid. The number of delinquencies is small, Wardell said. A checking-up process is now under way, and rapid work in clearing up cases of unpaid taxes is expected.

The taxes paid on the 150,000 returns ranged from 1 cent up to $6,000,000.

OUR CASUALTIES IN FRANCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The brilliant fighting of the American marines in France has not been without its toll of death. Today's casualty report from the navy's soldiers commandant added fifty names to the list, forty-six men being killed in action, and brought the total marine casualty list to date to 1112.

THIRTY MILLIONS COST Y.M.C.A. IN WAR WORK

WESTERN LEADERS CONFER ON CAMPAIGN TO RAISE $110,000,000 IN FALL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Planning to fix quotas for each of the eight States in the western military department and conferring on ways and means for raising this district's share of the $110,000,000 to be sought this fall for Y.M.C.A. war work, 500 representative business and professional men of these States met here today. They heard a presentation from George W. Perkins, New York financier and member of the association's war work council, of startling figures on what has already been accomplished.

Of the $50,000,000 collected for Y.M.C.A. war activities to date, Mr. Perkins said, $30,000,000 has been spent. Five millions was spent for canteens overseas and $20,000,000 is needed as a capital investment for the same purpose. The Y.M.C.A. has 67,000 men and women in war work at home and abroad, and because of the emergency created by the increased transfer of men overseas this force is being increased at the rate of 1000 a month.

Included in the supplies provided by the association were 350,000 tubes of tooth paste, 400,000,000 cigarettes, 4,000,000 pounds of sugar, 2,000,000 Bibles and 100,000 phonographs.

There are 538 Y.M.C.A. war buildings in the United States and 505 in Europe.

CAMP LEWIS THRONGED WITH NEW SOLDIERS

ARRIVAL OF DRAFTED MEN AT CANTONMENT SWAMPS THE OFFICERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMP LEWIS (Wash.), June 26.—With the arrival of 2255 men today, approximately 5000 of the June draft contingent of 12,500 men had arrived in camp. The last of today's arrivals were in early tonight and the receiving station personnel were given a rest, no more men being scheduled for arrival before 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. Tomorrow is the lightest day of the week in draft arrivals, 653 men coming from Oregon, Nevada, Wyoming, Utah and Montana.

The special trains carry the men almost to the doors of the receiving tent in the depot brigade section of camp, but men coming in on regular trains are marched a mile and a half down California avenue under command of a noncommissioned officer. They are beginning their military life at a time when the weather is best for training and awkward squads many of the men still wearing their civilian clothes were a common sight on the parade grounds today.

The last of the 12,000 in this draft are expected in camp by Saturday night.

KAISER'S SOLDIERS FIND NO SIGNS OF COWARDICE.

Letters Taken from Slain Huns Declare Our Men are Making Presence Felt on French Battlefields.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

WITH AMERICAN ARMY ON THE MARNE, June 25, 3 p.m.—The German semi-official statement referring to cowardice of American soldiers is most recent attempt to furnish palatable food for home consumption. The Germans who have faced Americans have to say about the fighting is just the opposite of what the Germans in Berlin have said when making the wish father the thought. To prove this I pass on the numerous statements of captured Germans as to the good fighting qualities of Americans for one can say they carried favor and I found in a letter taken from the body of a German soldier killed by Americans north of the Bois de Belleau. He belonged to the Seventh Company of the Third Reserve Engineer Regiment and this is a part of the letter he wrote home under date of June 11:

"We are now in the battle front and the canteens dare not come to us on account of the enemy, for the Americans are bombarding the village fifteen kilometers behind the battle front with long-range guns. I tell you will know that a canteen is not pleasant to eat cherries when the Americans. The reason for this is that they have not yet had much experience. The American divisions are still too fiery. We also show the Americans how we are for the day before yesterday we bombarded them heavily with our gas. This had caused them very great losses for they are not sufficiently experienced with gas attacks.

AMERICANS "NOT NICE."

"About 400 of us are lying around here. We have one side of the woods and the Americans have the other one. That is not nice, for all of a sudden he rushes forward and one does not know it beforehand. Therefore one must shoot at every little thing he one cannot trust them. Always two men dig a hole for themselves. Here one lies day and night without a blanket, only a coat and half sheltered. One freezes at night like a sailor for the nights are fiercely cold. I hope I will be lucky enough to escape from this horrible mess for up to now I have always been lucky. Many of my comrades already are buried, two here. The enemy sweeps every morning the whole countryside with rifles and machine guns and then artillery fire. But we in the front lines are safer than in the support position. At the present our food is miserable. We are now fed upon dried vegetables and marmalade and when at night we obtain more food it is unpalatable. It is half sour and cold. In the daytime we receive nothing."

Another German letter dated the same day said:

"I have no more courage to work day and night and do sentry duty on dried vegetables and marmalade. You will not believe what we must suffer from the continuous enemy fire. In addition to all this there is no leave and no thought of it even. It is enough to make one desperate. I have had nothing to smoke for six days."

AMERICAN SUCCESS.

If they desire accuracy the Kaiser's publicity men would do well to get a copy of a letter from a member of the famous Twenty-eighth Division from which the following extract is taken:

"This division is now taken out after spending two weeks against the American unit. As far as my health is concerned I am faring well and that is a very important thing. We are again in the front line because the American division opposite us has achieved some success and we, as the model division, are going to make good this loss. At the present moment we are lying in reserve in a small wood where we have made dugouts which we have furnished as comfortably as possible with all sorts of stuff collected from a near-by inn. Of course we are getting all sorts of knocks from the enemy artillery which especially at night shoots at us accurately. Up to now everything had gone pretty well, but we hope to be relieved pretty soon and once again get some rest, because if one has been more than fourteen days in this mixup one has more than sufficient."

HEROIC FRANCE CALMLY FACES HUN BRUTE LEERING AT GATES.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

LONDON, June 25.—Coming away from France after a sojourn of five months, one feels increased confidence that the French people will be equal to all emergencies. Preparations for a possible withdrawal of civilians from the capital have been going forward under our eyes for weeks, absolutely without panic and with that spirit of painstaking conservation which is peculiarly French. It is all the more wonderful when one remembers that France has already endured enough to kill any other two nations when Germany brought out everything from the east and, fitting out her full force with all the devil's own inventions, launched it full at the defender's heart.

What will happen if Paris falls? The French are not afraid to look this possibility in the face, so no one else need be.

France will stick under all circumstances. She has not endured four years of agony to weaken now. But she is practical as well as heroic. She knows that she has earned the good will of the world and can undertake the huge task of rebuilding with everybody ready to help her.

Then there is the Clemenceau government, which has stood like a rock in the recent storms.

One more thing was necessary to give France the strength to go through—American help. It came, and how strong-winged and splendidly opportune was its coming!

Even in these last few months when Paris has been constantly under the fire of long-range guns and air raiders, and at times brute force in monstrous forms peered in at the very gates of the capital, France has never lost her tranquillity, and those who were best informed were sure of her. Even now she is ready to contribute her share to holding any line, however far west the German pressure may thrust it.

At Chateau Thierry.

OUR MEN'S LIFE AT FRONT DESCRIBED BY PERSHING.

Americans Giving Blow for Blow with Big Guns and Rifles.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Belated reports giving for the first time a descriptive story of what the American troops have been doing northwest of Chateau Thierry since June 20 are contained in Gen. Pershing's communique for yesterday, received today at the War Department. The communique follows:

"Section B.—For our troops in the Chateau Thierry, the twenty-four hours from noon June 20 to noon June 21 were quiet as compared with the many days of great activity which they have recently experienced. The German artillery continued to shell both our front lines and rear areas, distributing its fire rather impartially over the sector. The Clercembauth and Marette Woods, Lucy Le Bocage, Triangle farm, Lethiolet and Bouresches all received their share. So did the Paris road on our other principal lines of communication, but the number of shells used was moderate for this locality and most of them were of small and medium caliber.

"The fire was of various sorts, some of the harassing sort directed against our billets in rear areas at intervals during the day and night and some for the obvious purpose of cutting our communications. As usual some of the lower and wooded areas were shelled with gas, but high explosives and shrapnel were frequent.

SNIPERS ACTIVE.

"The German machine guns were active against our lines, especially in the vicinity of Bouresches, and snipers were active near the edges of Bois de Belleau and around the Bouresches railroad station.

"The enemy made one of his customary attempts to ambush an American patrol in the vicinity of Tafournay, but this ambush party was caught and dispersed by our fire. German airplanes were active along our front, paying particular attention to the right half. In the rear of the German line small groups were seen in constant action passing along the roads between the various farm towns and woods. A considerable number of them appeared to be carrying stretchers. Wagons, automobiles and artillery caissons were also in constant movement, but in not more than customary numbers.

"Our own troops bore their full share of the day's activities, advancing and improving their positions and returning the enemy's intentions in the matter of artillery fire. After a burst of fire on a cluster of woods, a number of the enemy were seen running away in all directions. All of our units sent out patrols which effectively reconnoitered the hostile positions.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

"In the Chateau Thierry region the day of June 21 to June 22 produced no marked developments. In the absence of infantry actions artillery played the leading part. The German artillery was active in the same manner as on the preceding days and to a somewhat greater extent. German airplanes were also present in somewhat greater numbers.

"In the rear the same small groups were again seen and once again our artillery fire had marked effect, driving back into the woods near Lizy farm a group of men who had attempted to emerge. The German infantry seemed to give most of its attention to the Belleau Woods and to checking our patrols.

"One of our parties southwest of Vaux encountered lively rifle and machine-gun fire and from the same points there was considerable sniping on our lines. Bouresches and the Belleau Woods again received special attention from the German machine-gun detachments. German snipers retained their positions of the day before. Our troops, as usual, returned what they received both in artillery fire and sniping, while our patrols were continually active.

LIKE PREVIOUS DAY.

"During the day, June 22 to June 23, our troops near Chateau Thierry experienced conditions quite similar to those of the preceding forty-eight hours. Woods, farms and villages were again shelled, with the slight use of gas from time to time and with occasional concentrations. The distribution over the sector was again fairly even. Far more marked, however, than the activity of the German artillery was the German airplanes, which, in a number of flights, made what is almost a record for activity over one of our small sectors in a period of twenty-four hours. During the late evening one of our airplanes dropped three bombs, which produced craters of moderate size.

"In addition to the movement of small groups in the German rear areas, a column of troops (estimated at about a battalion and accompanied by combat wagons) was seen in motion during the early evening. At another time two columns of troops, a battery, a number of chiasons and several wagons and automobiles were seen moving along the roads. At another spot a small group was very busy over a fallen airplane. The enemy is still busily improving his wires.

MACHINE GUNS BUSY.

"The German machine guns were somewhat more active than on preceding days, paying great attention to our patrols, both by direct and cross-fire. As usual they were also directed against Bouresches and Belleau woods. They did not, however, prevent our troops from sending out numerous patrols. Besides the customary activity of our own batteries, we made considerable use of mortars. Farm buildings in the German rear area were seen to burst into flames.

"On June 22 to 23 our troops south of the Marne experienced the same desultory shelling by the enemy as during the preceding days. The hostile fire fell especially on Creseancy, Fossoy, Blesmes farm and Nesties. On the whole, however, the enemy artillery activity was slight and confined largely to the use of shells of small caliber. Many German airplanes flew over our front lines, east and west along the Marne. They were principally in groups of from two to ten planes. One of them dropped objects which were burning, which whistled as they fell, and made considerable noise when striking the ground.

ENEMY SIGHTED.

"A number of enemy were seen during the day, a few coming down to the river to wash in the morning and others passing in and out of the town of Charleves. Others could be seen carrying rations and going to and from working parties. The working parties were evidently digging and probably constructing new emplacements. During the night German patrols opposite Mesy threw stones across the river at our outposts.

"In the Woevre region on June 22 to June 23 the enemy's activity showed some diminution. Front lines at Seicheprey, Boise de Jurk, Bois de Remieres and other points, as well as Beaumont and other positions in the rear, were shelled. Our roads also suffered some bombardment. The shells came mostly from Bois de Mortmare and Bois de Lassonard, but the fire, mostly of the harassing sort, was little above the normal. The same was true of the machine-gun fire which came mainly from the little villages of Lahayville and St. Baussant, across the line from Seicheprey. German airplanes were little in evidence. Movements of trucks and wagons in the rear of the German lines were normal. Working parties were observed to be constructing new camouflage. Our own troops were not especially active.

"On June 22, our troops, who are fighting in the Muehlhausen area, reported a quiet day. The enemy's batteries fired a small number of rounds from the Muehlwald and other positions in the rear. His machine guns were occasionally active, and at least one of his patrols was driven off by our fire. Only in his rear areas was there anything of note. This consisted of increased movements of men, forces, wagons, trucks and trains."

TIDE TURNED IS LONDON FEELING.

EVENTS OF LAST FEW DAYS HAVE RAISED HOPES MORE THAN OPTIMISTIC.

By Charles H. Grasty.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

LONDON, June 26.—In England, the events of the last few days have created hopes more than optimistic. Until the Boche jumps from the springboard again nobody dares to predict without knocking on wood, but in their hearts all feel that at last the tide has definitely turned.

Hindenburg held Italy as a terror over the Allies, but the tables have been handsomely turned there. Unless he is able to break through the western front on the next trial it is not believed that he will have enough men and material to begin a large-scale offensive. His soldiers can no longer be stimulated to superhuman effort, and behind in Germany is a civilian community, limp and sick with hunger and hopes deferred.

Worst of all is Austria, where Dr. Lindendorff has been called post haste to administer the oxygen treatment, which usually is a preliminary notice to the undertaker.

LAUDS BRITONS HERE FOR TRAINING WORK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 25.—J. I. Macpherson, Undersecretary of War, answering a question in the House of Commons today, said that the numerous reports received of the work and conduct of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the British training mission in the United States have invariably been excellent, and speaks of the men as showing not only zeal and keenness in their work, but as being examples in every way of what soldiers can be.

The report of the Inspector-general of the United States Army, according to Mr. Macpherson, stated that he and his inspection officers had been much impressed by the work of the British officers in their camps.

LAST AMERICAN FLYER WITH FRENCH KILLED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26.—Lieut. Cyrus F. Chamberlain, son of F. A. Chamberlain, a local banker, and the last American member of the famous Lafayette Escadrille, was killed in an airplane accident in France, according to a cablegram received by Mr. Chamberlain, Sr. Chamberlain met death in a French machine on the French front, the dispatch said.

Chamberlain, who was a graduate of Princeton, was given a lieutenant's commission a few weeks ago after he had participated in several thrilling air battles. Details have not been received as to how he met his death.

FORMER D.A.R. HEAD ARRESTED

Mrs. Story and Two Sons are Accused of Larceny.

Misuse of Soldiers' Relief Funds Charged.

Woman is Paroled in Custody of Her Counsel.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 26.—Mrs. William Cumming Story, former President-General of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was arrested here late today on indictments charging her with grand larceny, petty larceny and conspiracy in connection with the affairs of the National Emergency Relief Society, of which she is president.

Indicted with Mrs. Story were her sons, Allen, an army lieutenant stationed at Aberdeen, Md., and Sterling, who is now in the government service at Washington. They are charged with having participated with their mother in a profiteering scheme whereby money contributed for comfort kits for United States soldiers was diverted to the pockets of a solicitor.

SOLICITOR GOT HALF?

The indictments charge that Mrs. Story arranged with William Garland Brown, the solicitor, for him to receive half the funds collected by the society and that he gave Sterling Story one-fifth of his 50 per cent. This second division, it is alleged, compensated Sterling for his part in negotiating Brown's arrangement with his mother.

The assistant District Attorney, who has charge of the inquiry, declared there was no way of checking up the contributions made and the use to which they were ultimately put. Consequently, he said, the aggregate amount believed to have been misused could not be verified.

Mrs. Story, the authorities declare, never was actually elected president of the relief society, but took that office arbitrarily. As a matter of fact, they say, the manner in which the society itself was incorporated was "grossly irregular."

MEMBERS WITHDRAW.

Several prominent members have withdrawn and insisted that their names be no longer used on its stationery, it is said. Among them are Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske and Mrs. Simon Baruch, wife of a wealthy New York physician.

Mrs. Story subjected herself to prosecution, it was declared, because she falsely represented that her society paid no commissions to solicitors, and thus obtained a small part of the proceeds from the Hero Land Bazaar, in which many accredited war relief organizations participated.

Mrs. A. T. Baldwin, wife of a New York lamp manufacturer, who, it is declared, was deposed as treasurer of the society by a faction favorable to Mrs. Story, was the chief witness during the grand jury sitting.

Through her counsel tonight Mrs. Story termed the charges made against her and her sons the result of "disgruntlement on the part of the treasurer of the society (Mrs. Baldwin,) who was removed from office by vote of the organization." The lawyer said that Mrs. Story had no knowledge of the society's financial transactions other than that gained during the official investigation.

PROMINENT IN CLUBS.

Besides serving three years as head of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Story formerly was president of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, chairman of the women's division of the American Defense Society and an active member in the Colonial Dames and other organizations.

Mrs. Story inaugurated a movement to organize the members of the D.A.R. for war work during her term of leadership. On behalf of the same society, she presented colors to the Rainbow Division last October. She has been an advocate of universal military training and other aggressive war measures. She took a prominent part in the agitation against Dr. Karl Muck, former leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, now interned as an enemy alien.

Mrs. Story was paroled in the custody of her counsel until tomorrow afternoon, when she will be arraigned and bail will be fixed.

LARGEST CALL MADE FOR ARMY

July to Witness Record Move of Men to Camps.

367,961 Selects to Leave Civilian Pursuits.

To Exhaust Class One in Many Districts.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—White and colored draft registrants numbering 124,525 were summoned to the colors for general military service in a call issued today by Provost-Marshal-General Crowder. Mobilization will take place at intervals during the month of July, starting with the entrainment of 33,259 white selected men on July 5.

Today's call combined with that for 220,000 to be mobilized July 22-25, ordered by Gen. Crowder last night, and with the various special calls previously issued, will remove from civilian life during July, a total of 367,961 men, the largest number of men summoned in any one month since the draft became operative.

The call issued today is divided into four sections for entrainment purposes. From July 5 to 9 white registrants numbering 33,259 are to be entrained; from July 15 to 19, whites 21,255; July 16 to 20, colored, 45,000; and from July 29 to 31, colored, 25,011.

Although the order issued last night for 220,000 men probably will deplete the present available in Class 1 in most of the draft districts, it was pointed out that the bulk of the men called for July will not go to camp until after the middle of the month, and by that time it is expected the additions gained by reclassification and by the new registration of 21-year-old youths will be available.

The quota of white entrainment of 33,259 for July 5-9 includes Oregon, 1350, to Fort McDowell.

White entrainment of 21,255 for July 15-19 includes California, 1350, to Fort McDowell.

No western States are included in the colored entrainment of 45,000 for July 16-20 or of 25,011 for July 29-31.

National lottery machinery will be set in motion for a second time tomorrow for the drawing of the order numbers for the 744,500 young men who attained their majority during the year ending last June 5, the first anniversary of the selective draft registration day.

Secretary Baker plans to draw the first capsule containing a master number from the bowl at 9:30 o'clock. The last capsule is expected to be drawn by noon.

VON KUEHLMANN ONLY REPEATS LIES, IS VIEW.

PARIS AND LONDON PRESS TAKE MEASURE OF GERMAN DIPLOMAT'S WORDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, June 26.—The newspapers of Paris devote much space to the address of Dr. Von Kuehlmann, the German Foreign Minister, and reproach him for repeating "lies as to the origin of the war."

The Petit Journal declares that the orator must "have an abnormal dose of impudence to declare, the day after the German Emperor had glorified himself, in that he foresaw the war, that Russia and the Entente had started it."

The speech was intended for German consumption. In the opinion of the Excelsior, which says that the German people need such "recomforting tonics."

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 26 (via Ottawa.)—A new note in enemy oratory was struck by Dr. Richard Von Kuehlmann, the German Foreign Secretary, in addressing the Reichstag, according to the comments on his address appearing in London newspapers. The admission by Dr. Von Kuehlmann that the settlement of the war by military decision is impossible, received much attention.

The Daily Telegraph emphasizes the Foreign Minister's unusually brief reference to Germany's military prospects, and says that the general tone of his utterances on the subject of peace and the eastern front is undoubtedly a confession of weakness. In conclusion, the Telegraph anticipates that the address may prove a precursor to his dismissal.

ENGINEER HELD WITH FIREMAN FOR WRECK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HAMMOND (Ind.) June 26.—Alonzo Sargent, engineer of the empty troop train that wrecked the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus train last Saturday near Gary, Ind., and who is alleged to have been "dozing" at the time, and his fireman, Gustave Klauss, today were held to the grand jury on charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Affidavits charging them with responsibility for the wreck, in which seventy-eight circus employees and one railroad man are believed to have perished, were presented in the Lake county Superior Court by acting Coroner H. C. Green.

Bonds for Sargent and Klauss were fixed at $5000 and $3000, respectively.

Member Tells of Deportations from Jerome.

Organization's "Bible" Admitted in Evidence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 26.—No beds of roses have been the lot of members of the I.W.W., according to James P. Thompson, one of the 101 leaders of the organization on trial for seditious conspiracy, who testified today of beatings, cells and deportations in various western localities.

It didn't seem to make much difference where they went, according to Thompson, for there nearly always was somebody to start the I.W.W. members on their way. Chief among these unpleasant affairs was the deportation from Jerome, Ariz., last July, Thompson said.

"When I arrived at Jerome, after speaking twice at Bisbee," said the witness, who still was on the stand at adjournment for the day, "I was told there would be no [illegible] retired early, only to be [illegible] of bed early in the morning. shouts and hammering on my [illegible] The door was partly forced [illegible] and the crowd rushed in [illegible] all being armed.

BUNNIES BUSY; DOING DAMAGE.

Repeated complaints about damage done to crops by rabbits have been made to the Fish and Game Commission by both hunters and ranchers who ask that the season be thrown open at once so the rabbits can be utilized for food, and reduced below possibility of injuring beans and other food-supplying plants. All these complainants are being referred to the Food Administration, as the Fish and Game Commission has no power to make or suspend any laws.

Advanced conservationists all over the country have urged that the fish and game authorities be invested with discretionary powers to change regulations under stress of such extraordinary emergencies as the present, which may arise in between sessions of the regular law-making bodies. Although irreparable damage might happen to the breeding stock before the slow processes of the law could meet the menace, California remains one of the States which as yet has failed to provide against the unexpected which generally is what happens.

Sportsmens' associations all over the State are advocating a change in the laws that will enable the State conservation authorities to cope with such a condition as the present rabbit situation. Rabbits could be declared "in season" where plentiful enough to damage crops where discretionary powers vested in the Fish and Game Commission without waiting until another winter.

While many true sportsmen deplore opening the season on rabbits because they believe much of the demand is due to the desire of hunters to have a good excuse for summer "pooncering" amongst the doves and quail, considerable complaint comes from land owners whose claim is that crops of particular value this season are being damaged even more than ordinarily.

NO CHANGE MADE IN DEER SEASON.

To prevent honest sportsmen from being misled by erroneous reports as to changes in the laws which have not been made, the Fish and Game Commission has called attention to the fact that the restrictions upon killing deer stand just as they did last season, and to refresh memory, are briefly outlined as follows:

The first lawful deer-hunting may be done in the coastal counties between Los Angeles and Mendocino August 1, known as fish and game districts Nos. 2 and 3. Next comes the large territory comprised in fish and game district No. 1, the San Joaquin Valley, all Northern California and the Sierras as far south as Mono. Fish and game district No. 4, comprising Southern California proper, with Inyo and Mono counties included, opens for deer hunting on September 1.

Cards are issued by the Fish and Game Commissioners, which give in concise form all the restrictions upon hunting and fishing, which should be studied by every person interested in these sports.

BALTIMORE ALSO BANS BIG BATTLE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 26.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, today received word from Baltimore that the Fulton-Dempsey bout is indefinitely postponed. This is the result of the action by the Baltimore Board of Police Commissioners, who announced today that except for the boxing contests for which permits have been granted, no more will be allowed during the period of the war.

In effect this prevents the meeting of Fred Fulton and Jack Dempsey in this city. The board had previously issued a permit for this contest for the Fourth of July, but owing to the inability of the promoters to get a proper site they decided to postpone it to July 13.

When these promoters went before the board today to get permission to change the date they were informed of its action.

SEEK ENTRIES FOR BIG MILITARY SHOW.

Entries are being sought for the special track and field events to be staged at Exposition Park Saturday in conjunction with the big military pageant which is to be held under the auspices of the Hollywood officers' training school. Four events are scheduled. They are the 100-yard dash, 120 low hurdles, pole vault and mile relay. President Bob Weaver of the A.A.U. has granted a sanction for the meet.

WOMAN CHAMPION IS BEATEN AT BENEFIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, June 26.—Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of Philadelphia, woman champion, was defeated in an exhibition golf match benefit for the French ambulance fund here today by Walter Clark, professional, at the Denver Country Club, 3 up. Mrs. Gavin made the course in 83 and Clark in 74. More than $500 was raised for the ambulance fund.

ANGELS TRIM THE MORMONS.

Bees Defeated by Score of Four to Two.

Seraphs Swing Their Bats Hard in Twilight.

Visitors' Runs Made in the First Inning.

BY EDWIN F. O'MALLEY.

McCredie sprang his pitching three diamond special, Master Leverenz, last evening at Washington Park, but gathered nothing, the Angels trimming him, 4 to 2. Leverenz was hardly at his best and the Seraphs had little trouble encountering his offerings with ready and greedy bats. Paul Fittery opposed Leverenz, and for the first time this year succeeded in downing him after four defeats.

Leverenz heaved air-tight ball until the eighth inning. It was here that mocking shadows stretched themselves lazily over the vast outfield. In the thickening gloom Walter grew generous to the Cherubs, smearing the ball with phosphorus. My, but how Killefer's pets did then glim that pill!

The glimming resulted something like the following: Terry flied to Farmer. Fournier doubled to center and scored on Crawford's infield single when Sheeley threw wild to Leverenz to get Crawford at first. Ellis singled to right, and Crawford scored when Chappelle's throw to Sands to catch Sam at third went wild and rolled to the left-field bleacher fence.

Ellis took third on the error. Butler flied to Sheeley. Lapan singled infield, Ellis scoring. Pepe singled to left-center, putting Lapan on second, but Fittery ended the inning by fanning. Three runs, five hits.

The visitors made their only two runs in the first inning as follows: Miller walked; Farmer tripled to left, scoring Miller. Chappelle singled infield, scoring Farmer. Orr sacrificed to Fittery, unassisted. Chappelle was caught off second, Lapan to Butler. Sheeley popped to Terry. Two runs, two hits.

The only other time the visitors had a chance to score was in the sixth, when Farmer tripled with two down, but Chappelle went out, Terry to Fournier. The score:

GOLDEN TROUT EGGS COMING IN NUMBERS.

Thus far the Fish and Game Commission's attempts to establish a new record in the taking of golden trout eggs have been so successful that over 250,000 have already been delivered to the Mt. Whitney Hatchery for rearing, and the fish have just begun to run in the last lakes up the canyon. Supt. George B. McCloud of Mt. Witney Hatchery is in charge of Cottonwood Lakes Spawn-taking Station, and reports to Fish and Game Commissioner Connell that a good "take" is in prospect in the upper lakes, as the fish are very large. The Cottonwood Lakes appear to be as well supplied with golden trout as the Rae Lakes above the hatchery are with rainbows, and the feeding grounds of the Cottonwood waters are much the best, water warmer and a moss growing on the bottom which provided considerable food.

It is planned to distribute the golden trout extensively throughout the Sierran lakes and streams which are adapted to them, and build up this immense watershed to its fish-carrying capacity.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS SWIMMING EVENTS.

A big crowd turned out to witness the Southern California swimming championships at the Venice plunge last night. The winners of the five events on the programme were as follows: 50-yard dash, Jack Kilburne, L.A.A.C., time, 25s. flat; 220-yard dash, Will Witte, L.A.A.C., time, 2m. 44 4-5s.; 100-yard dash, (boys) Hugh Walter, Venice Aquatic Club, time 1m. 16s.; 50-yard dash, (girls) Emily Hestron, Ocean Park Athletic Club, time 35s. flat; 200-yard relay, won by L.A.A.C., time, 1m. 42s.

CHICK EVANS GETS SOME REAL JOLTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26.—Two real jolts were handed Chick Evans of Chicago, national open golf champion, here today. The first consisted of Evans being taken into custody by agents of the Department of Justice because he was unable to produce a draft classification card.

After a two hours' wait at Department of Justice headquarters, Evans was released when a telegram was received from his draft board stating that the golf expert had been placed in class three.

Warren K. Wood, Evans's partner, accompanied Chick to headquarters. Wood was not held, however, as he produced a classification card.

The second jolt came when Evans and Wood, who came here for the purpose of playing an exhibition for the benefit of the Red Cross, were beaten by George Sargent, professional, and Harry Legg, State amateur champion, both of Minneapolis, 5 up.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, June 26.—Cleveland and St. Louis split another double header, Cleveland taking the first game 5 to 4, and St. Louis the second 4 to 2. Cleveland won the first game in the third inning, driving Sothoron from the box after two errors by that player had paved the way for four of the visitors' runs. A double by Hendryx with the bases full in the eighth inning game the locals the second game. The score:

VETERAN TRAINER DIES IN NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 26.—Matthew Allen, widely known in the United States and England as a trainer of racing horses, died here today. He was 52 years old.

Allen spent practically his whole life on the turf. He trained thoroughbreds for Senator George Hearst of California, "Diamond Jim" Brady, James R. Keene and other prominent owners. He conducted the Keene stables in England.

TWILIGHT BALL NEXT SATURDAY.

Twilight baseball has become so popular in Los Angeles that the Los Angeles management have decided to play evening ball on Saturday the same as the other days. Beginning next Saturday the game will start at 6:30 p.m. On Sunday, however, the old time of 2:30 p.m. will be observed. It is expected that twilight baseball will continue at Washington Park for at least three weeks more.

FIX CANNED TUNA PRICE

Merritt Issues Statement Concerning This Year's Cannery Product.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, June 26.—A schedule of maximum selling prices per case for canned tuna, f.o.b. canneries, was received from the Food Administration today. The authorization came in a telegram from Ralph P. Merritt of San Francisco, Food Administrator for California, to W. C. Crandell, deputy for the Southern California district. The prices allowed which cover the pack for 1918 and include all brokerage charges, are as follows: Quarters, $3 per case; half-pound, forty-eight to the case, $7.50 per case; pound, $12.50 per case.

These are the prices for which Federal Fish Commissioner Crandell has been working for some time and about which there has been considerable uncertainty on the part of the packers. The prices to be paid the fishermen were fixed by the government several days ago.

FOOD IS RUSHED FIRE VICTIMS AT CLE ELUM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLE ELUM (Wash.) June 26.—With a rationing system in force here, none of the 1500 persons rendered homeless by the fire which almost totally destroyed Cle Elum yesterday, is suffering for lack of food, according to members of the Citizens' Committee and Red Cross officials who are supervising the work.

Numerous instances of valuables being recovered by their owners from the ruins of their homes came to light today. Pietro Osigni, a miner, is said to have recovered a metal box containing $1800 in gold which he had buried in his cellar.

The fire started in a grocery store and, fanned by a high wind, practically the entire town, causing a loss estimated at $1,500,000.

...PPOSE DRAFT ...AGE EXTENSION.

...ck and Baker Ask Delay in Senate Action.

...e Department to Gather Statistics on Needs.

...der Application of Work ...e Fight Order Planned.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

...WASHINGTON, June 26.—Opposition of the administration to proposals before the Senate for immediate extension of the selective draft ...Rules, voiced today by Secretary Baker and Gen. March, Chief of ...ff, before the Senate Military ...mittee, apparently served to in...ce the Senate controversy over ...e amendment, by Senator Fall of ...w Mexico, to the $12,000,000,000 ...ar appropriation bill proposing ...w the age limits be 20 and 40, instead of 21 and 31 years.

...pitched all-day debate on the ...estion in the Senate, in which im...rtant revelations of the nation's ...litary programme were made, followed the Military Committee's conclusion, and the Senate adjourned ...ll tomorrow in the midst of the ...ght with a vote not in immediate prospect, but with administration leaders confident of ultimate defeat of the proposal. Tomorrow the ...ll is to be resumed with a final ...te expected before the end of the ...ek.

Before the Senate reconvened today Secretary Baker, Gen. March and ...ief of Staff - Marshal - General Crowder, ...o went to the Capitol at the re...est of members of the Military ...mmittee, spent nearly three hours ...hind closed doors with the committee.

DELAY IS ASKED.

The Secretary and Chief of Staff ...ged legislation to change the age ...mits should be deferred for sixty ...r ninety days, as enough men for ...e existing army programme are ...available, and a new and enlarged ...my programme is now being pre...ared for submission to Congress ...within a few months.

Debate on the draft age question ...rst out anew in the Senate, when ...nator Chamberlain, of Oregon, ...airman of the Military Committee, ...ld the Senate of the opinions given ...e committee, that Gen. Crowder ...d advised in the policy of his su...ion and that the Military Com...ittee, by a majority vote, had de...ided to oppose the proposed draft legislation as an addition to the army bill.

Senator Fall and other advocates of the Fall amendment immediately renewed their fight for changing the draft ages, declaring that the department's information, showing that the Class 1 registrants would be exhausted in a few months, at most, warranted extension at this time by Congress of the draft to men below 21 and above 31 years.

BACKS ARMY HEADS.

Senator Chamberlain, although favoring immediate legislation, announced that he would abide by the department's recommendations, and oppose the Fall amendment, while Senators Hitchcock of Nebraska, McKellar of Tennessee and others urged that the legislation go over. Senator Hitchcock indicated that he would not press his substitute resolution to extend the draft ages.

Tomorrow Senators Reed of Missouri, a Military Committee member, Cummins of Iowa, and other advocates of the Fall amendment, plan to renew their fight. Senator Chamberlain and other opponents of the amendment expressed the belief tonight that the Senate will reject the proposal, but not until after a further bitter controversy.

That there would be no delay in increasing the army to the maximum of the nation's shipping, food, clothing and other resources by postponing change in the draft ages, was the statement of Secretary Baker and Gen. March, upon which opponents of the Fall amendment laid stress.

Sentiment generally was expressed in the debate that revision of the draft ages apparently must be resorted to in the near future, and considered by Congress next fall at the latest. General sentiment also was against lowering the minimum age below 20 years, and for increase of the maximum to at least 32 years.

JOHNSON PLAN BLOCKED.

Secretary Baker, Gen. March and Gen. Crowder, it was stated, all opposed the amendment by Senator Johnson of California, proposing that in future draft calls, States which have already furnished by voluntary enlistments an excess of their quotas, shall be given credit for such excess. Senator Johnson was satisfied with the statement that the present system without credits is fairest and planned not to press his amendment.

When the Senate reconvened and resumed consideration of the army bill, Senator Chamberlain outlined the statements given by Secretary Baker, Gen. March and Gen. Crowder.

"Both the Secretary and Gen. March are of the opinion," said Mr. Chamberlain, "that no change ought to be made in the age limits at this time. They say that in order to have proper consideration of what the limits should be, a complete investigation ought to be made of the number of men now subject to draft, the number of men that can be transported to France and the shipping available. They say that no harm can be done or no delay occasioned by postponement of changing the ages until September and they very much advise against a change until this investigation can be had.

ASK INVESTIGATION.

"They feel that before any change should be made there should be a full investigation, before disturbing the social and industrial conditions of the country.

The committee concluded by a majority vote it would not be best to undertake at this time a change in the draft limits."

Senator Smoot of Utah asked for Gen. Crowder's views, and Senator Chamberlain replied:

"Gen. Crowder substantially stated that it was his duty to carry out the War Department's work and not recommend policies. I think he feels, like I and many other Senators do, that a change in the age limits eventually will have to be made.

"They feel that no delay can be occasioned by waiting two months or so."

Senator McCumber of North Dakota said the Military Committee "seems to use no judgment of its own, but follows that of the War Department." Senator Chamberlain replied that it was proper for the committee to seek the advice of those directly in charge of the conduct of the war.

CRITICISES DEPARTMENT.

Senator Fall of New Mexico vigorously criticised the War Department's attitude, and Senator Chamberlain replied that he was not altogether in favor of all the views of the Secretary of War, adding if he had his way he would have 2,000,000 men in France with all possible speed.

"Of course I know there was no reference to the election then," interrupted Senator Fall, referring to today's conference. "If I thought the Secretary of War was small enough and the Chief of Staff was base enough to oppose this on the grounds that an election is coming, I would repudiate the recommendations of both of them," declared Senator Chamberlain.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska declared there was an undue amount of confusion over the issue.

"No committee has considered or advocated any change in the draft law," he said. "Secretary Baker and Gen. March did not seek any change. It is here on an appropriation bill that an effort is made to make the change. And it was in an effort to secure light on their attitude that the chairman of the Military Committee asked the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff to confer with the committee today, so there was no effort made by Secretary Baker or Gen. March to interfere. There is no attempt on the part of the War Department to interfere with Congress.

Using Gen. Crowder's statistics, Senator Hitchcock said the committee discussed with Secretary Baker and Gen. March how large an army can be raised from men from class 1.

"When class 1 is exhausted in August," said Senator Hitchcock, "we will have an army of 2,300,000 men. Gen. Crowder estimates that in addition we will get about 150,000 Canadians and English from the recent reciprocal draft treaties, thus giving us an army of 3,450,000.

"The highest estimate of the number of men we will have in France by that time is 1,450,000, so we will still have over 2,000,000 men in training in this country.

"I state these figures to show there is no emergency and no necessity to hurry in changing the draft ages to get more men. There are enough men for a few months, until a complete study of shipping, clothing and other problems of an army increase can be made."

SEES COUNTRY INJURED.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, who urged immediate legislation, said he thought an injury now is being done the country because men in the present draft are being called who should be left in industry, while men above 30 who should be called are exempt.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts asked if Congress should not raise armies.

Senator Johnson of California explained that he suggested the invitation of the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff, and added that the officials did not seek to dictate legislation.

"Draft ages will have to be altered soon," declared Senator Johnson. "Class 1 will be exhausted in ninety days."

Chicago Almost Gets Back to Seasonable Temperatures, But Mercury Again Declines.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 26.—The temperature almost got back to what might be considered a good, agreeable summer state of affairs today when, at 4:15 p.m., it touched 89, but its sojourn at this elevation was short lived for at 5 p.m. it was back to 86 and by midnight had reached 63. The lowest for the day was registered between 3 a.m., and 6 a.m., and was 59 deg.

Once again there was a threat of rain, but it did not materialize, and on the whole there was more sunshine than shadow. Reports from elsewhere in this vicinity indicate that there is slow return to more seasonable conditions.

AMERICANS IN MEXICO SEND UNCLE SAM GIFT.

Cancelled Stamp Birthday Present Idea for July 4 Spreads Below Border.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—"A gift to Uncle Sam from his well wishers in Mazatlan, Sinaloa, Mex., wishing him a happy birthday."

Accompanying this message, received here today, came $172.25 from forty-two Americans for the purchase of postage stamps as an outright independence day gift to the nation. The stamps will be cancelled by writing the names of the donors across the face and returned to them mounted on cards.

A 12-year-old American boy, Alvin Newbie, canvassed the community and made the collections.

The plan of purchasing stamps and cancelling them as a free offering to the nation on July 4 has the approval of the United States Postoffice Department.

PRESIDENT APPROVES FINDINGS OF COURT-MARTIAL, FIFTEEN YEARS GIVEN.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE AND A. P.]

HONOLULU, June 26.—The court-martial sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment imposed on Capt. Franz J. Feinler, an army chaplain, on charges of disloyalty, has been approved by President Wilson, according to advices received here tonight. The sentence will be served at the Federal prison on McNeil's Island, Wash.

Capt. Feinler, who formerly was with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, was charged with having attempted to bring about insubordination among enlisted men and with having disparaged American soldiers serving in France.

SEEK GRAFT EVIDENCE IN CHICAGO AIRCRAFT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 26.—Investigation by the Federal grand jury of alleged graft in the operations of the local branch of the aircraft board has been instituted, United States District Attorney Charles F. Coyne announced today.

Department of Justice agents are said to have obtained evidence that since last fall and until a few months ago money flowed like water from the local offices, and that rich men's sons without qualifications were given high-salaried positions as inspectors.

A. R. Bruncker, a local business man, has had the management, which he accepted on a part time basis. Much of the management is said to have devolved upon C. I. Hogue, who, with eight employees, was released a few months ago.

Additional Billions of Dollars and Millions of Men are Wanted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Secretary Baker disclosed to the Senate Military Committee today that within three months an enlarged army project, now being worked out, will be presented to Congress to represent the maximum fighting effort of the country.

Already the calculations upon which the pending army bill was framed have been exceeded, and the War Department is now revising its plans on an enlarged basis that means additional billions in money and additional millions of fighting men.

The full scope of the new measure is not yet apparent even to officials who are preparing it.

Mr. Baker disclosed the new plans in explaining his reasons for opposing any change now in the draft-age limits. Later, during general debate in the Senate chamber, figures were disclosed showing the great strides being made toward bringing American fighting power to the front in France.

FIVE MONTHS AHEAD.

Gen. March, Chief of Staff, already has announced that the army is five months ahead of schedule in troop movements, 900,000 men having been shipped abroad. During the debate today, however, it was disclosed that if the highest hopes are realized, 1,450,000 men will have reached France some time in August, and that there will be a total force under arms of approximately 3,500,000. A statement read into the Senate records by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Committee, predicted that class 1 probably would be exhausted during October, and would be reduced to 641,126 men by calls to be made before August 1.

Secretary Baker and Gen. March were positive that the reservoir of fighting man power would meet all calls upon it under the best possible conditions of mobilization and transportation until Congress has an opportunity to take up age extensions later, with the data now being compiled by the War Department at hand.

SHIP PROBLEM.

The question of available shipping to haul the men to France is the vital factor. At present much British and French tonnage is employed on the work, as unusually good crops in England have already made ships available weeks longer than was expected.

The table shows a total strength in class 1 of 2,362,082, deductions of 334,634 for delinquents, 86,770 for the emergency fleet list, 215,529 for limited-service classification and 50,268 for remediable defectives, leaving 1,724,871 fighting men of those originally placed in class 1. To that number it is estimated 200,000 will be added by the reclassification process now going on, and 400,000 from the class of 1919 to be drawn tomorrow.

With the July call deducted, the table fixed 877,359 as the number of availables left in the fighting ranks of class 1, and the estimated calls for the rest of the year are placed at a total of 875,000, which would leave 2000 men still in the class on January 1, 1919. The calls for 1918 are given as: August, 300,000; September, 150,000; October, 150,000; November, 150,000, and December, 125,000.

MAN POWER SUFFICIENT.

It was pointed out during the Senate debate that these figures, prepared by Gen. Crowder, seemed to show a sufficient number of men to fill any calls now planned, and that apparently an estimate of 150,000 additional men to be obtained by the draft treaties with France and Great Britain was not included, nor the 196,000 cases on appeal, of which it was said 95 per cent. would go into class 1. It was noted, also, that 215,000 men available for limited military service had been deducted from the total of class 1, although it is understood men of this classification are included in the calls.

Many Senators were puzzled by the figures. It appears possible, however, and Secretary Baker and other War Department officials are known to share this view, that, in fact, if the present schedule of mobilization is carried out, there will remain in class 1 under the present age limits several hundred thousand men, instead of 2000, on next January 1. Probably this fact prompted the recommendation that the age limits be not disturbed for the present.

EFFECT ON INDUSTRY.

Mr. Baker has started a careful study of the probable effect upon essential industries of application of the draft to men of more than 31 years would have. It is regarded as obvious that only a proportionately small number of fighting men could be derived from this source, while an enormous amount of labor would be involved in the registration and classification of all men between 18 and 45 years of age, as proposed.

It was also recalled that the original selective draft bill submitted by Mr. Baker proposed 19 as the minimum age, and he has frequently stated that he had not changed his opinion that the bulk of the fighting forces should come from the young men, an opinion also strongly held by General Staff officials.

There is strong opposition in Congress to placing the minimum age below 20, but it was regarded as probable tonight that eventually a mutual compromise would be effected, satisfactory both to Congress and administration officials, by which the draft would cover men between 20 and 35 years, possibly up to 40, and that, in addition, there would be written into the law an application of the work-or-fight principle inaugurated by Gen. Crowder among the draft eligibles that would reach even older men, possibly up to 50 years.

NO FAVORED SECTION.

It was brought out today that no section of the country enjoys a peculiar advantage because of the new basis of assessing draft quotas on class 1 instead of population. The strength of class 1 in the South is figured at 31.7 per cent., in the West at 28.9 per cent., in the North at 26.4 per cent. and in the Middle West at 29.1 per cent.

Senator Chamberlain also put in the record a table showing the status of class 1 on May 1, 1918. The gross total shown, representing men held liable under their answers to questionnaires presumably, although the statement was not contained in the table, was 5,472,357. After deducting 341,096 as delinquents, 27,509 as emergency fleet list men, 224,855 as limited military service classifications, 38,515 as remedial defectives, 485,835 as inducted into military service since December 15, 1917, 25,454 as cases pending before district boards and 147,803 as not physically examined, the total arrives at a net amount of 1,172,544.

HOLLYWOOD MAN WEDS SANTA BARBARA GIRL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, June 26.—John Montgomery Douglas of Hollywood and Miss Olive Arne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Arne of this city, were married here this evening at the Presbyterian Church. The groom is president of the First National Bank of San Fernando. Irving Marlin of Los Angeles and Howard Wayne of Hollywood were groomsmen and the bridesmaids were Miss Francis Arne and Miss Aurora Brown.

The father of the groom is first vice-president of the Home Savings Bank of Los Angeles.

SENATE MAY BACK UP ON TWO FIFTY WHEAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Senator Martin of Virginia, majority leader of the Senate, introduced a resolution today directing the Senate conferees on the annual agricultural appropriation bill to recede from the Senate amendment providing for a government minimum guarantee of $2.50 a bushel for wheat. He announced that he would ask a vote on the resolution tomorrow.

The House managers had refused to accept the amendment and a deadlock had resulted.

TOMMY BURNS AND FULTON PLAN BOUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 26.—Fred Fulton and Tommy Burns, heavyweights, will meet in a four-round bout at a patriotic show here July 1, Burns announced today. Burns, one-time heavyweight champion, is now a corporal in the Canadian army, and has charge of physical training of troops here.

VICTORY PRAYER IDEA IS SEIZED AT CAPITAL.

ANGELUS MOVEMENT, CALIFORNIA SUGGESTION, BIDS FAIR TO BECOME NATIONAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Washington really took the Angelus—a moment of prayer for victory and peace—to its heart today, when after a day or two of experimenting, the committee in charge decided to install a great steam whistle on the Evans Building, one of the prominent downtown office buildings, which will at noon each day, give the signal to all to stop and make an appeal for the troops of America overseas.

The idea was universally accepted and the whole city is following the example of President Wilson in approving the suggestion made by Mrs. Gertrude Dodds Treber of California. Undoubtedly the movement will spread to Baltimore and other eastern cities. Cardinal Gibbons has unofficially indorsed the plan and it is very probable that Congress will take official notice of the movement by resolution.

All of the churches downtown are open at noon and bear large placards calling upon young and old, poor and rich, to come within the portals at noon to offer the prayer for victory. The suggestion is receiving more general observance than any civic movement in many years. One of the local papers today prints the following statement:

"In the Washington Times, June 12, I read with some surprise a letter from a correspondent indicating that the idea of the Angelus which is to be started in Washington, June 23, was originated in Jacksonville, Fla. In order to keep records straight, I ask you to print the following proclamation by Mayor W. A. Vandergrift, Mayor of Pomona, Cal., March 30, 1918:

"'To the citizens of Pomona: Owing to the fact that we are now engaged in the greatest war of modern history, and that many of our boys are at the front, ready to lay down their lives if need be for the cause of liberty and right, it has been suggested that we pause for a brief moment in our busy life and offer a silent prayer for our President and our boys.

"'I, therefore, would earnestly request that all the bells of the different churches and schools be rung at 12 o'clock each day for the period of one minute, and that all business and traffic be suspended, and that each individual cease whatever labor he or she may be doing and give a thought and a silent prayer for the safe return of our boys and for the cause we hold dear—the cause of right and humanity.

"'W. A. VANDERGRIFT,
"'Mayor of Pomona.'

"Also letter thanking me for suggestion:

"'April 6, 1918.

"'Gertrude Dodds Treher, Huseneme, Cal.

"'My dear Mrs. Treher: Your very kind letter received, with sincere thanks, not only for your kind words, but for giving me the suggestion which caused the beautiful thought to be put in force, not only in our own city, but we hope all over the United States. W. A. Vandergrift.'

"Gertrude Dodds Treher, Huseneme, Cal.

AMEND RAILWAY BILL; FAVORS SMALL ROADS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Acts amending so as to prohibit relinquishment of Federal control over one railroad while control over a competing line is retained, the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today ordered favorably reported a resolution extending from July 1, 1918, until January, 1920, the period provided in the Railroad Control Act during which the government can return carriers to private ownership.

STEAMER MAKES NOME; THREE STUCK IN ICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOME (Alaska) June 26.—The first steamer of the year from the outside arrived here last night after bucking its way through fifteen miles of broken shore ice.

Three other steamers for Nome are still held in the pack within sight of the city.

Tunnel Workers Killed by Gas.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, June 26.—Five workmen who were digging a shaft in a tunnel near here to locate a water supply source were killed instantly today, when they dug into and exploded a pocket of natural gas, 300 feet underground. Four other workmen who attempted to rescue their companions were overcome by the gas before they could reach the bodies and were rescued with difficulty.

TO TEST TEXAS DRY LAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AUSTIN, June 26.—Legal steps were taken in the Court of Criminal Appeals late this afternoon to test the constitutionality of the State-wide prohibition law, which went into effect last midnight. The case was brought from Bexar county, and the defendant, F. Meyer, was granted bond in $2500.

DRIVE AT WATTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WATTS, June 26.—Mrs. Arthur Bellew, chairman of the local War Stamp drive, announced that $4540 had been subscribed at noon today and that not half of the committees had reported. A patriotic meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night at Odd Fellows' Hall, the purpose of which is to promote War Savings Stamp sales. The principal speaker will be J. Stitt Wilson.

Time Zone Changed in Nebraska.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered that all points on the line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway, west of Curtis, Neb., to and including Sterling, Colo., shall after 2 a.m., June 30, be included in the standard mountain time zone.

"SEMINARIES ROTTEN WITH PRO-GERMANISM"

DR. BROUGHER URGES COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THEOLOGICAL COLLEGES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BERKELEY, June 26.—Classing some of the doctrines in eastern theological seminaries as "rotten with pro-German philosophy," Rev. Dr. James Whitcomb Brougher of Los Angeles, speaking before 100 delegates at the Pacific Coast Baptist conference in this city today, urged the appointment of a special committee to probe the teachings of the various curricula in colleges and seminaries throughout the country.

"We have been allowing German propaganda and German philosophy to take the place of Jesus Christ in many of our institutions," the speaker declared. "In some of our theological seminaries the doctrines taught are so uncertain that we do not know what they are. There is no room for German spies in this country. Also, there should be no German philosophy in our seminaries."

Dr. Brougher declared all professors found guilty of including German philosophy in their teachings should be interned during the remainder of the war.

"Why should we send our children to institutions to be taught tommyrot?" he asked. "We should not trust our colleges beyond one generation in their teachings."

Denominational teachings, he declared, should be included in State educational curriculums. Delegates from several States, including California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho Nevada, Arizona and British Columbia, are attending the various sessions.

CONDUCTOR MEETS DEATH AS ENGINELESS FREIGHT TRAIN RUNS AWAY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 26.—While his two daughters were on a passenger train from Los Angeles, stalled at Wickenburg behind the freight train on which he was conductor, James Stewart sustained fatal injuries in a wreck on the Hassayampa bridge of the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railroad, fifty miles northwest of this city. Stewart's southbound train had been divided, he remaining with the rear end awaiting the return of the locomotive.

A northbound freight, which had been passed, also was cut at a point several miles to the northward, while the locomotive and a part of the cars went on to Wickenburg.

On this rear end, asleep in the caboose, had been left a cattleman, who awoke to find the train plunging southward without control. There was a terrific crash as the runaway section met the also engineless section at the bridge, a number of cars being whipped from the grade to the river bed, twenty feet below.

Stewart was caught in the timbers of the crushed caboose, and died as he was being taken northward by special train to a hospital at Prescott. The cattleman sustained a broken arm and shoulder.

STRIKE ON WESTERN UNION IN FEW DAYS?

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 26. — Percy Thomas, deputy international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, announced tonight that he had received the following message from S. J. Konenkamp, president of the organization, who is in Chicago:

"You may announce that as soon as the Western Union Telegraph Company's bonus is paid strike may be matter of few days. Joint committee meets here Friday to prepare final instructions for railroad and commercial telegraphers and electrical workers. The instructions will be mailed to all points by next Wednesday."

TOMMIES CAN'T DANCE NOR DRINK PUBLICLY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—As a result of instructions received here from the British-Canadian forces' headquarters in New York, uniform soldiers of those countries are denied the privilege of drinking and dancing in a public place, and beginning today stand on the same plane as the American soldier in one respect.

The Yankee, however, is not obliged to sit and listen to an orchestra instead of dancing.

WARTIME RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR
How to Make an Inexpensive Mixture That Will Darken Streaked or Faded Gray Hair.
Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:
Merely get a small box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs only 25 cents, and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in one ounce of water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use come in each box.
You need not hesitate to use Orlex, as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, aniline, coal-tar products or their derivatives.
It does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger.

THEIR 'IGHNESS'S STACK O' HOTS

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE.]

LONDON, June 26.—The King and Queen Mary, attended by an all cloth-covered suite, visited a group of khaki-clad American motors and a couple of American jackets. Each ate a plate of wheat cakes hot from the griddle with a generous covering of maple syrup. Both finished their portions, politely refused second helpings, but declared themselves in favor of the adoption of wheat cakes into the British menu.

After going through the canteen Hut, examining the cooking arrangements and kitchens, the King and Queen paid a visit to the Washington Inn, the hostelry of the American officers by the Mall in St. James Square.

FIRES IN COOS BAY DISTRICTS DAMAGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARSHFIELD (Ore.), June 26.—Forest fires originated here in several districts near Coos River, the most dangerous one was reported between North Bend and Empire, in the Belka Pole Camp, where several residences were destroyed.

Fire fighters were rushed from North Bend Box Factory to combat the flames, which were driven by a south, fanned by a heavy wind, in a path 200 yards wide, through an area of green timber.

PRISONERS EXCHANGE AGREEMENT FINALLY

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE.]

THE HAGUE, June 26.—It is learned from an authoritative source that indications point to the signing of an agreement at the German conference on the exchange of prisoners.

The conference has been in sittings for a few days, the delegates to consult with their respective governments.

SHE USED TO BE GRAY.

Society Ladies Everywhere Use "La Creole" Hair Dressing.

The well-known society leader's hair was prematurely gray, perhaps just like yours, but Mrs. J——— heard of "La Creole" Hair Dressing—how thousands of people everywhere had used it with perfect satisfaction. It is not a dye, but a preparation designed especially for the purpose of gradually restoring color to gray or faded hair, and which is easily applied by simply combing or brushing through the hair. "La Creole" Hair Dressing positively eradicates dandruff, keeps the scalp in a healthy condition and promotes the growth of new hair; brings back a natural, soft, even dark shade to gray or faded hair, and makes it lustrous, full of life and beautiful.

USE "LA CREOLE" HAIR DRESSING to prevent your hair from growing gray and to restore a beautiful dark color to gray or faded hair. Sold and guaranteed by all good drug stores everywhere, or sent direct for $1.20 by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Co., Memphis, Tenn.—(Advt.)

SOUTH PASADENA HOME GUARDS BANISH HEARST.

Patriotic Organization Pledges Members to Keep His Publications Out of Home and Office.

THE FOLLOWING is the text of the resolution adopted by the South Pasadena Home Guards last evening, denouncing the Hearst publications and refusing them access to their homes or places of business:

"Whereas, the United States of America and Allied nations are now engaged in a struggle which makes it necessary that every influence within our borders shall give unqualified loyalty and support to our country and to each and every one of her allies, as well as just and honest treatment to all now clothed with governmental authority; and,

"Whereas, newspapers and periodicals are the most powerful factor in creating public opinion, as well as the most potent vehicle for its dissemination, and are therefore peculiarly burdened with responsibility for our country's welfare; and,

"Whereas, we, the members of the South Pasadena Home Guards, a patriotic organization, desire to maintain within our community and our country a healthy and loyal public mind, free from insidious and designing influences opposing America or any of her allies, or tending to create or stir up class strife and labor or race prejudice, or to misrepresent any act or word of public officials; now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, That we, the said members of the South Pasadena Home Guards, acting solely of our own initiative, hereby condemn any and all publications which by act of commission or omission fail of absolute and hearty support of our nation's cause, and pledge ourselves to abstain and refrain from reading or advertising in such publications; and, be it further

"Resolved, that it appearing to us that, by design or otherwise, the newspapers and periodicals known as the Hearst publications, the policy of which is understood to be controlled or influenced by William Randolph Hearst, have not fulfilled the obligation owing to the United States and Allied nations or to some of those persons now performing governmental functions, notably the President of our country and the Governor of our State, we particularly condemn and censure the said so-called Hearst publications and make known our disapproval by refusing said publications access to our homes or places of business and by informing all organizations in South Pasadena of our action."

All Hearst publications were condemned as unpatriotic by unanimous vote of the South Pasadena Home Guards last night after one week's consideration during which a committee made a special study of the educational situation with which it has been identified.

Action was taken at an executive session, all non-members of the organization being excluded from the room. In order, it was announced, promptly to disavow any impression that the meeting was influenced in any manner.

Maj. D. H. Frye, battalion commander, presided at the meeting. A week ago he was empowered by formal resolution to appoint a committee of three to decide what action, if any, was to be taken against the Hearst publications. The personnel of this committee was kept a secret.

The same organization demonstrated its patriotic endeavors recently by escorting members of two alleged pacifist meetings to their homes and the limits of the city.

The resolution as adopted brands all Hearst publications as disloyal. These include the Los Angeles and San Francisco Examiners, the New York American and the Journal, and the various other daily, weekly and monthly publications of the Hearst string.

Your Job Essential? If Not, Change it or Join Army!

Draft Exemption Board No. 6 sitting as "work or fight" court last night.

Essential Vocations.

FIRST BOARD IN COUNTRY SITS AS "WORK-OR-FIGHT" COURT HERE.

SO FAR as reported, the first draft exemption board in the United States to sit as a court for the enforcement of the "work or fight" regulations is local board No. 6, at the Vermont Square branch library, Forty-eighth and Budlong streets. Last night the board ordered four young men to quit their present jobs, and get into essential occupations at once, told one young man to don a uniform, and passed the cases of seven others as essential to winning the war. On Monday evening this board held its first "work or fight" hearing, and of the twenty cases heard, told sixteen of the young men they are in useless occupations and directed them to find productive occupations or join the army at once.

Thirteen men sat on the bench in the board's rooms last night when E. E. Leighton, chairman of the board, called the first case. With him at one side of the long table sat Walter F. Arms and R. L. Chuning, other members of the board, while H. A. Graves acted as chief clerk. As the drafted man's name was called he came and sat on the opposite side of the table facing the members of the board. Chairman Leighton had before him the questionnaires which he and the members of the board looked over as they questioned each man.

The first man called at last night's session said he was a produce salesman for a local packing-house, that he had worked for it for six years and has a wife to support.

"NOT ESSENTIAL."

"Food is needed for the war," said Chairman Leighton. "You are selling it, not producing it. Those orders you get could be just as well telephoned in. You are not in an essential occupation essential to winning the war. You would do well in the Quartermaster's Corps or you might find a job through the United States Public Employment Service. Report here July 5."

The next case was of a young man who said he is acting manager of a jewelry store, that he is regularly manager of the store's diamond department, that the diamond business is very good, and he thought it was a pretty essential business.

"You are wrong," said Chairman Leighton. "If people are buying diamonds now, they are probably dodging the income-tax man. Diamonds are not essential while young men your age are fighting in France for $30 a month. Your job is ruled nonessential."

The diamond salesman appeared nettled and made an appeal to the district exemption board. Chairman Leighton was quite willing to have him do this so as to get a ruling on the question of how essential the jewelry business is. If the district board divides on the question of the diamond salesman's status, he may appeal to the President, but if the exemption board unanimously rules against him he has no further appeal and must get into a more wartime job.

A young man who is now selling boy's clothing in a downtown store was quite willing to admit that his job could be well handled by an older man and will try to find something more useful by July 5. A cigar salesman who next appeared at the table was unanimously voted to be holding down a useless occupation so far as winning the war is concerned. The young man said:

"I must find a job where I can make $200 a month."

He was quickly pounced on, figuratively, by the chairman.

"GET BUSY!"

"How about those young men who gave up good jobs and business responsibilities to go to France for $30 a month? No one can jump you about your mortgages while you are in France. The law protects you until the war is over and you are home again. Get busy!"

And so it went during the evening. None of the young men were intentional slackers. The fact that they were doing needless work had not penetrated their consciousness until they were face to face with the draft board.

Some of the men who appeared had jobs such as managers of departments requiring skilled knowledge of values and prices of electrical goods, rubber goods, oil—real jobs, and these the board listed as being in essential occupations.

One young man who appeared was told to appear next Monday night with his wife, so that the chairman could at that time in front of his

CAPT. HALL NOW HUN CAPTIVE.

Aviator's Sister Receives Word that He's Safe Though Injured.

A cablegram from Berne, Switzerland, which reached this city yesterday, conveyed the news that Capt. J. Norman Hall, the American aviator who was given up as lost some weeks ago, is alive and convalescing from injuries in a German prison camp.

The cablegram was relayed to Miss Marjorie Hall, a sister of the aviator, who is here from Colfax, Iowa, to visit her cousin, Mrs. J. W. Fowler of South Pasadena. The cablegram says that Capt. Hall is in Camp Limburg recovering from injuries sustained when he fell in German territory after his airplane had been shot down. Both of his arms were broken.

A little less than a year ago, while flying with the La Fayette escadrille, Capt. Hall was shot through the left lung, but he recovered from that injury and was actively engaged in the aerial activities of the March drive when a shell from a German anti-aircraft gun brought down his machine while he was making observations in enemy territory. Capt. Hall is 30 years of age. His parents reside at Colfax, Iowa.

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH FRAUDS.

Treatment for "Dangerous" Diseases Involved.

Long Beach Woman Brings the Complaint.

Bacteriologist Employee is also Arrested.

Charged by the government with misuse of the mails in connection with alleged fraudulent treatment of patients for "dangerous diseases," Dr. Herman Silverman, 53 years old, and Clyde H. Young, 34 years old, bacteriologist, with offices in the Marsh-Strong Building were arraigned each in $5000 bonds or $4000 surety bonds for preliminary examination tomorrow morning, before United States Commissioner Long yesterday.

They were placed under arrest following a raid on their offices late yesterday afternoon by Walter E. Cookson, postoffice inspector, and D. J. O'Leary, Deputy United States Marshal. Books and records were gathered up and carted off to the Federal Building as evidence. Both men vehemently declared their innocence.

Young, who is employed by Dr. Silverman, burst into tears imploring the commissioner to reduce his bail and adding that he had a wife and two babies at his Garvanza home awaiting dinner for him.

TELL OF BLOOD TEST.

The complaining witness is Mrs. Dorothy Campbell of No. 118 Gaviota avenue, Long Beach, a woman of considerable means. The complaint charges that Mrs. Campbell, following a "blood test" by Young, was told she had a malignant disease and was urged to visit Dr. Silverman, which she did. Another test was made and she was advised to take treatments at once. Mrs. Campbell thereupon visited four other physicians all of whom returned negative results in respect of the disease in question and informing her she was physically in good health.

Mrs. Campbell neglected to take up the treatments recommended by Silverman and the physician on May 25, addressed a letter to her Long Beach address, urging her to do so "on the same terms as heretofore agreed upon." She turned the missive over to the postal authorities and the arrest of Silverman and Young followed.

Postoffice Inspector Cookson declared yesterday that he had been in receipt of many complaints concerning alleged fake "treatments" administered by Silverman and Young and that an investigation of the two practitioners had been going on for some time.

GERMAN BY BIRTH.

Silverman is a German by birth. He said he has resided in Los Angeles for the past thirty years. Young recently came to California from the East, and in requesting Assistant United States Attorney Rucker to reduce his bond, said he knew nobody in Los Angeles who could befriend him outside of his employer, Dr. Silverman.

In refusing to lower the bail of the two defendants, Mr. Rucker declared that the nature of the crime charged against them "is the most heinous that was ever brought to the attention of this court."

"I wish to assure you," Dr. Silverman told Commissioner Long, "that I am perfectly innocent of this offense. I have lived in Los Angeles many years. I am a German by birth and have invested in Liberty Bonds, and I was never in trouble before in my life."

End is Near.

SEEK WORKERS AS "LIMIT PLEDGE" DRIVE STARTS.

Business Men Asked to Lend Help for the Finale of Big Campaign.

WITH a force of 500 men in the field, the big drive for "limit pledges" in the national war savings campaign starts today in real earnest.

Already there are approximately 150 members enrolled in the Los Angeles County Limit Club, and this number is expected to increase before the close of the big drive Friday night.

On Friday, which is designated by President Wilson as National Pledge Day, the corps of workers will be augmented to 1000 if possible, and it is requested that business firms and others who can volunteer helpers and help for the final skirmish tomorrow will report to Chairman Motley H. Flint, Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank. This special volunteer force will confine its efforts Thursday and Friday to the securing of "limit pledges" of $1000 maturity value.

Following are the names which already have been inscribed on the Limit Club rostrum, and which have been tabulated:

MRS. STEWART JOHNSTONE TO SUE FOR DIVORCE.

Former Mrs. Carroll Allen May Rewed One-Time Husband, Also Married and Separated Again.

AS AN intimate friend of long standing, Attorney Sam Haskins today will file for Mrs. Evelyn Gwynne Johnstone, a suit for divorce from Dr. Stewart Hope Johnstone, now believed to be in Kansas City. The charge of desertion will be the only one made in the complaint, Mr. Haskins said yesterday.

Mrs. Johnstone was formerly Mrs. Carroll Allen of this city. Since the parting of their ways, less than three years ago, each has remarried, Mr. Allen is again divorced, and his former wife hopes soon to become so. Rumor is current that a very friendly relation now exists between them, and that their closest friends are hoping when the existing legal difficulties are cleared away, they will again become husband and wife.

Mrs. Evelyn Gwynne Allen was granted a divorce from Carroll Allen at Reno, October 14, 1916, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. This was preceded by a separation in Los Angeles, where both of the principals have long been socially prominent. Mrs. Allen was to have the custody of the only daughter, Caroline, then aged 11, and Mr. Allen was to take the only son, Gwynne, a boy of 15. Gwynne was sent to a military school in Tennessee. The young girl remained with her mother.

In December of 1916, Mrs. Allen married Dr. Stewart Hope Johnstone, in New York, and shortly before Christmas that year, Carroll Allen married Mrs. Orin T. Higgins, widow of the son of a former Governor of New York. This marriage occurred at Nashville, Tenn., at the home of the bride's mother. Later, Mr. Allen and his new bride returned to Los Angeles. In the spring of 1917, Mrs. Higgins-Allen made a sensational departure from the Alexandria Hotel, in this city, declaring she was leaving for Reno, and that all mail received for her was to be forwarded to her under the name of Mrs. O. T. Higgins, and she would not receive mail under the name of Mrs. Allen. Later, at Reno, she secured a divorce from Mr. Allen.

After the marriage of Mrs. Evelyn Gwynne Allen to Dr. Johnstone, they went to New York, living there about two months, and then came west to Kansas City. Mrs. Johnstone had with her her daughter, Caroline. There, after only a few weeks' residence, Dr. Johnstone made arrangements for sending his wife and her daughter to Los Angeles, stating that he would soon follow. They came here, but Dr. Johnstone did not.

Friends of Mr. Allen and Mrs. Johnstone say that they both realize they made sad mistakes, and they are both strongly attached to the two children and deeply regret the events of the past three years, especially because of the children. Friends of both declare their sincere hope that the future may lead to a reunion of the two lives separated for the past three years, and their re-establishment of a happy home.

Seven Years Free.

FUGITIVE JEWELER MUST SERVE TERM IN PRISON.

W. J. KAHN, alleged fugitive jeweler and furrier from New York City, must serve three years on McNeil's Island for perjury according to commitment papers received yesterday from the East by Deputy United States Attorney Moody. He was arrested here recently while conducting a prosperous installment jewelry house under the name of Jack Hoffman. He finally admitted his identity and was held in $15,000 surety bonds.

Following his conviction and sentence for perjury committed in a bankruptcy hearing, Kahn disappeared from New York seven years ago, forfeiting $10,000 bonds. All trace of the fugitive was lost for seven years by the government authorities until he was located in Los Angeles, he having amassed a fortune in the meantime and having an income of $100,000 yearly when arrested.

Kahn's original sentence called for his being sent to the Federal prison at Atlanta, but in view of present circumstances the commitment papers were changed to read McNeil's Island, Wash. Kahn is said to be resigned to his fate and to be anxious to serve his sentence.

DISTRICT PAYS EIGHTEEN MILLION INCOME TAXES.

Southwest Makes a Good Showing—Delinquent Notices Sent Out.

INCOME and excess profit taxes estimated at $18,000,000 have been paid into the United States Internal Revenue Bureau from the ten counties representing the sixth internal revenue district. Final figures on this district will not be available from Washington for some time, it was announced yesterday by Sherman Jones, chief deputy.

With the expiration of the ten day extension of time allowed delinquents to make returns, approximately 1000 delinquent notices, involving about $100,000 in taxes, were sent out yesterday. Delinquents are now subject to a 5 per cent. penalty.

"This $100,000 represents the total delinquencies in the district, which is a very fine record if we are to draw comparisons," Mr. Jones said. "Moreover, a good percentage of the delinquents are soldiers who are either in army camps here or in France. All soldiers possibly will be excused in view of their service to the country. With the soldiers excused from the delinquent list, it will mean a further substantial reduction, all of which goes to show that the Sixth district, combining the Southwestern section of the United States, has certainly done its duty."

Mr. Jones again called attention to the urgency of making returns on the special, or occupational tax, which will become delinquent on July 1. These payments are coming in very slowly, he said, and there will be many delinquents unless more activity is maintained by those subject to the tax. The tax affects proprietors of theaters, museums, concert halls, circuses, public exhibitions, bowling alleys and billiard-rooms; brewers, rectifiers, wholesale and retail liquor dealers, and dealers in malt liquors, dealer in oleomargerine, adulterated and renovated butter, filled cheese, mixed flour, stills and worms; brokers, pawnbrokers, shipbrokers and customs brokers; manufacturers of cigars, tobacco and cigarettes.

On Terminal Island.

WILL BUILD HOUSES AT ONCE FOR SHIP WORKERS.

M. F. TERRY told the Harbor Commission yesterday that he is prepared to erect at once enough houses on Terminal Island to accommodate 1000 persons, and he outlined his plans for such a project. As a result, his application for a lease upon ten acres with an option on fifteen additional acres was unanimously approved by the commission.

"I have made a study of the housing situation at the harbor," Mr. Terry told the commission, "and have found that the men working in the shipyards want good accommodations. I am informed that there are men working at the various plants receiving large wages, and consequently they are not looking for cheap quarters.

"I plan first to erect homes for single men, providing them excellent quarters. Many of them would insist upon private baths and I intend to supply them. The rates will not be exorbitant. I will build a motion-picture theater, a social hall and commissary for their pleasure and convenience."

When these houses are completed, Mr. Terry says he wants to build a large number of bungalows for families and expects to secure a lease upon fifteen additional acres.

Last week the Council approved a lease applied for by Dr. H. H. Stone and it is reported that he will begin the erection of 300 homes at once.

RED CROSS AFFAIRS

Marking the completion of its first year of work as an organization the Jefferson Parent-Teachers' Red Cross auxiliary will hold an anniversary celebration and carnival next Saturday afternoon and evening. The affair is to be given on the grounds of the old Thomas estate, located at the corner of West Jefferson and Figueroa streets, and which has been loaned recently to this active auxiliary for its war work by William May Garland.

Here on Saturday the doors of the old adobe home will once more stand hospitably open. Throughout the extensive grounds will be located various carnival features, snake charmers, fish ponds, grab-bags and fortune tellers, all gathered in this bit of old Los Angeles in the name of mercy. Music by The Times Jazz Band, vocal solos and various games will be among the attractions offered for the evening.

Refreshments will be served from the tearooms, which occupy a large portion of the house itself, and which, since their opening two months ago, have become a very satisfactory source of Red Cross revenue.

Ideally located for tearooms, the romantic old adobe attracts many a passer-by, and many matrons of the neighborhood are finding it a very convenient place to take the afternoon guest for the usual cup of tea. And there is usually a peek taken at the Red Cross shop, which occupies two of the rooms of the old house, and where one may purchase anything from a purse to a kitchen stove, while on Saturdays cooked food sales are always well attended.

The celebration on Saturday will close a year of hard work, for an average of seventy women, who have given 29,120 hours to Red Cross work under the supervision of trained workers. The yearly reports show that 700 hospital garments, 15,000 surgical dressings and 1300 knitted garments have been turned into the Red Cross headquarters. To accomplish this about $2300 has been raised, $75 of which was a gift of the members of the One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery.

Sometimes houses as well as individuals seem to be permitted a second youth. At least, that seems to be the case with the old Thomas home. Long the rendezvous of fashionable Los Angeles society, its rooms are once more filled with pretty matrons and dainty girls—and frequently comes some former Angel City belle, just to see once more the old place and to visualize the happy times which took place within its adobe walls. If houses have souls, and who shall say they do not, surely the old place must be wonderfully happy, for having had its part in the making of a great city, it is still able to "do its bit" towards making a better world.

Rosemont Auxiliary Carnival.

A carnival will be given under the auspices of the Rosemont Red Cross Auxiliary tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Rosemont schoolhouse grounds, Rosemont and Temple streets. There will be a booth for the sale of Thrift Stamps, a bazaar, games of all kinds and dancing.

Lawn Fete.

A lawn fete will be given by the Harriett Tubman Auxiliary to the Red Cross this afternoon and evening at No. 1119 East Adams street. E. J. Delorey, Supervisor, will speak, and E. Smythe Jones will sing. Miss Lauretta Butler will present one of the special features, and refreshments will be served.

GILMER IS WITNESS.

Former Receiving Hospital Head Is Witness Before Criminal Committee of Grand Jury.

Dr. J. P. Gilmer, formerly chief surgeon of the Receiving Hospital, and resplendent in immaculate white duck and naval gold lace, was a witness yesterday before the Criminal Complaints Committee of the county grand jury.

Deputy District Attorney Selph, who is in charge of the inquiry, which is supposed to have something to do with the recent change of administration at the hospital, would give out no information on the subject.

FILM MEN LINE UP FOR SHERIFF CLINE.

Indorsements of Sheriff Cline's candidacy for re-election were increased, yesterday, when Thomas H. Ince and Mack Sennett, representing two of the largest motion-picture producing companies in Los Angeles, pledged their personal support and agreed to aid his campaign among the film colonies.

Another pledge of support came from the Clean Government League, of which the Rev. George Hargraves MacNeill is president and the Rev. E. E. Haring is secretary.

CITY GIVES A PARTY TO BALLOON-SCHOOL MEN.

Big Delegation Acts as Escort from Depot to Auditorium Show.

LOS ANGELES gave her first official party to the new Arcadia balloon school last evening when 520 men, commanded by Lieut.-Col. W. N. Hensley and Maj. J. M. Harris, adjutant, arrived in this city at 7:20 o'clock and were met at the Pacific Electric depot by the Mayor's secretary, members of the City Council and a delegation of policemen and firemen headed by Fire Chief Eley.

Practically the entire school, according to Col. Hensley, was present, only enough men being left behind to guard the camp. These few will receive a portion of the good time this morning when a carload of watermelons that Douglas Fairbanks has donated the regiment is apportioned. Three companies, the Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Sixty-sixth, comprising the whole personnel of the camp, came to the city and were escorted to Clune's Auditorium where they were entertained with a showing of "The Eyes of the World."

At the station the men, many of whom are strangers to Los Angeles, were met by a group of soldiers' mothers, as well as by the city and other officials. Included in the latter were Councilmen Olsen, Farmer, Mallard, Cleveland, Conrad, Criswell, Reeves and True; Chamber of Commerce members, including Maynard McFie, Frank Wiggins, Maj. A. J. Copp and Seth Hart; Dr. Glenn MacWilliams, secretary to Mayor Woodman, and Police Sergeant H. J. Toomey.

At the theater, in addition to the showing of the film, a programme was presented under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Neighbors, who gave the address of greeting. Dr. MacWilliams, representing Gov. Stephens as well as the Mayor, officially welcomed the men and was followed by Maynard McFie, who presented the greetings of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. B. A. Davis read a poem, "The Star in the Service Flag."

It was originally intended that the visitors, following the performance, were to adjourn to the cafeteria of the Auditorium to be served with the Fairbanks watermelons. However, they will eat the melons in camp today.

"This was the first time that many of the boys had had a good look at our city," said Councilman Olsen, "and for that reason we wanted to give them a warm welcome. They come from all parts of the country but hereafter we want them to feel that Los Angeles is their home."

WILL HELP DRIVE FOR WOMEN'S HOSPITALS.

BRITISH AMBULANCE CORPS TO GIVE LUNCHEON AND LAWN FETE.

A luncheon will be given today at the Westminster Hotel, under the auspices of the British Women's Ambulance Corps, in the interest of the campaign for the benefit of the American woman's hospitals. At the luncheon an address will be given by a special speaker, direct from the trenches in Europe.

In the afternoon there will be a lawn fete at the home of Dr. Louise May Richter, No. 112 South Avenue 66. Miss Esta Kite, daughter of Mrs. Charles Kite of the Woman's Improvement Association of South Pasadena, will sing a number of patriotic songs and vocal selections will also be given by the following: Robert Fenton, Miss Priscilla Putterfield, Marie Pierce, Edith Nelson and Prof. L. Houpt, blind tenor. Mrs. Bertha Hancock-Rice will give humorous dialect selections, and Harold Walberg, violinist, will contribute. The tea tables will be in charge of Mrs. Kiyo Sue Inui, wife of Prof. Kiyo Sue Inui of Occidental College and the University of Southern California. A Japanese sketch artist will draw pictures of those attending.

At the luncheon yesterday at Christopher's, Henri Bagnereau of the French army, now instructor at Camp Kearny, spoke. One team alone yesterday reported $1000 as a day's work.

Police Judge White also spoke of the necessity of Los Angeles subscribing its quota to the fund for work in Europe. This amounts to $50,000.

HIS HONOR SCORES SHRINKING HUSBAND.

SAYS HE DOES NOT BELIEVE HIS TALE ABOUT BEING FORCED TO WED.

"You have more nerve and gall than any one coming into this courtroom for a long time. You came in here with a lie on your lips and perjured yourself. The idea of saying that this woman forced you to marry her by threatening to kill you. And you march off to Riverside with her, passing an officer and saying nothing to him. She ought to have shot you in the first place."

Judge Wood made this comment yesterday in denying John H. Lettow an annulment of his marriage to Ethel W. Lettow. The evidence before His Honor showed that Mr. Lettow had been married before and that he had called on the other woman before the final decree was granted. He said that wife No. Two said she would shoot him if he did not marry her, although he told her he could not support her. On the way to Riverside to get married, he admitted he passed an officer at the station, but did not appeal to him. She told him she had a gun with her and he said he was afraid

TO BUY MORE WOOL.

California Knitting Circle to Give Open-air Twilight Musicale This Afternoon.

A novelty in the way of musicales will be given this afternoon under the auspices of the California Knitting Circle, an organization of some thirty prominent society women of this city, in the George Birkel gardens, No. 2306 South Figueroa street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It will be a "twilight" affair and entirely out of doors. A large number of prominent artists, professional and otherwise, have donated their services, and the programme will be worth much more than the 50 cents admission to be charged. All the money goes to buy more wool out of which the circle makes articles of wear for soldiers and sailors. Mrs. Robert Wankowski, president of the circle, is in charge.

USE FOOD RULES TO VENT PETTY SPITE.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS FLOOD ADMINISTRATOR'S OFFICE; BUTTER PRICE UP.

Many men and women are endeavoring to use the local office of the United States Food Administration in spite affairs, by reporting alleged infractions of food rules, it was announced yesterday by Harry Drainger, deputy city food administrator. The complaining letters are mostly unsigned.

"All letters and complaints sent to this office must bear the name of the writer to receive attention," Mr. Drainger said. "Hundreds of spite letters are sent here every week, causing us a great deal of trouble. Wherever there is a legitimate suspicion that there are infractions of food rules, this office will thank the informants, but it cannot be used to settle petty matters of spite."

Information was received yesterday from S. B. McNear, chairman of the South Pacific Coast division of the Food Administration, that there will be no change in the wheat substitute rules until next fall. His letter reads:

"The definite substitution programme for next year will only be announced after a European conference of Herbert Hoover, United States Food Commissioner, and the Allied food ministers, and the determination at that time of the world's food supplies and the programme that will be adopted. Absolutely no change will be made until then and any statement or forecast in this matter is without basis or authority."

Louis M. Cole, city food administrator, left yesterday for a week's vacation. Mr. Drainger will take his place during his absence.

The Los Angeles Fair Price Committee yesterday announced an advance of 2 cents a pound on butter and also a raise on select-grade eggs.

MUSICAL CONCERT.

Downtown Music Store to Celebrate Constantino Day with an Elaborate Recital.

Constantino day will be observed at the reception parlors of the Barnes Music Company, No. 221 South Broadway, this afternoon, with an elaborate concert, presented under the personal direction of Signor Florencio Constantino, grand opera tenor.

The day will mark the seventy-ninth anniversary of the creation of the famous Hallet & Davis piano, which for nearly a century now has been used in the salons of artists throughout the world.

The programme will begin at 2 o'clock and will last until 4 o'clock. The general public is invited and there will be no charge of admission. Signor Constantino will appear in person.

The programme will include a number of delightful arias from grand opera and several remarkable Spanish dances. The artists have been carefully selected for the occasion and represent the pick of the talent of the California Temple of Arts.

CHARGES CRUELTY.

Giles Kellogg, Son of Late Secretary of Union Oil Company, Sues for Divorce.

Giles V. Kellogg, through his attorneys, Kuster & Salisbury, yesterday filed a suit for divorce from Marietta Kellogg, giving cruelty as the grounds. Mr. Kellogg is the son of the late Giles Kellogg, who was secretary of the Union Oil Company. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg have been married for four years, and there are two children.

HEROINE OF SENSATIONAL EPISODES MARRIES AGAIN.

MRS. REBECCA BERMAN KANTROWITZ, whose marriage to Abe Kantrowitz, five years ago, was marked by a series of sensational events, yesterday became the bride of Jacob Shaingold. The final decree of divorce dissolving her marriage to Mr. Kantrowitz was entered only an hour before the bride entered R. S. ("Cupid") Sparks's license emporium.

"He is a good man," she said referring to Mr. Shaingold, "and we will be happy."

She was not happy in her former marriage. An exciting episode in a cab, followed by the loss of her jewelry, which Mrs. Kantrowitz charged to the machinations of Mr. Kantrowitz, resulted in the young wife bringing suit against her husband's parents, Nathan and Esther Kantrowitz, to recover the jewels. She recovered judgment for $700 in Judge Shenk's court. Subsequently Nathan Kantrowitz was held up in his store by bandits and fatally shot.

These details of her former married life Mrs. Shaingold—she was married yesterday afternoon by Rabbi Rosenthal—would not talk about.

Mr. Shaingold had a former wife. He is 34 years of age; Mrs. Shaingold, the second, is 32. Both have one boy.

"We both had troubles," said Mr. Shaingold," yesterday, "Now we are going to forget them."

A Great Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

G. J. English, of Springfield, Mass., says: "It was your Castoria saved my child."

Mrs. Mary McGinnis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "We have given baby your Castoria ever since she was born, and we recommend it to all mothers."

N. E. Calmes, of Marion, Ky., says: "You have the best medicine in the world, as I have given your Castoria to my babies from first to last."

Mrs. Albert Ugusky, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., says: "As I have used your Castoria in use for nearly three years, I am pleased to say it is as represented. My children are both well and happy—thanks to Castoria."

R. P. Stockton, of New Orleans, La., says: "We began giving Castoria to our baby when he was eight days old and have kept it up since, never having had to give any other medicine."

Mrs. Dolph Hornbuckle, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "We commenced giving your Castoria to our baby when she was four weeks old. She is now seven months and weighs 19½ pounds. Everyone remarks 'What a healthy looking baby.' We give Castoria credit for it."

wife order him to get into a uniform.

The young man had worked in a garage and had done various odd jobs, and now said he was working on desert land. He said:

"I wanted to enlist, but my wife always cried when I spoke of it. You tell her I want to go. You tell her," he said to the chairman.

As he told his story some school children in another room in the library building were singing the Star Spangled Banner," and as they sang Chairman Leighton said:

"We have reports on you from Department of Justice agents. You haven't amounted to much in life. The army would make a man out of you. Put on a uniform! Do your share! Your wife will be proud of you then."

The young man stiffened up and said: "I am ready to go."

One last case did not belong to the evening's proceedings, but was that of a breezy young man who had gone to Canada when the war broke out, but had declined to become a British subject so as to get into the British army, and has been tearing around ever since trying to get into service, and he was there last night demanding that he be sent to Berlin AT ONCE. On account of various technical mixups he had been kept from the front. He will start for Camp Lewis June 22.

It is expected that before the week is over most of the eighteen draft boards of the city will be holding "work or fight" hearings and ordering young men into jobs essential to winning the war. The men who will be called to explain their jobs are those now in class 2, divisions a and b; class 3, divisions a, b and c, and class 4, division a.

NEEDS MOTHER'S CONSENT.

If he can gain the consent of his mother, Herbert C. Underwood will again apply at the marriage license bureau for a certificate. Yesterday he was turned down because he is only 19 years old. But because he expects to be called for active service at any time, Mr. Underwood, who is in the naval reserves, wants to make Nancy Marsh, his schooldays sweetheart, his bride. She is 18. Both reside in Inglewood.

LIVINGSTON'S BOND FORFEIT.

Surety Company Gives Federal Court Big Sum as Ben Livingston Vanishes.

Cash amounting to $10,000 representing its equivalent in bonds was paid by check to the Federal government in Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday by the surety company which went on the bond of Ben Livingston, fugitive from justice, who disappeared from Los Angeles after having been indicted in connection with an alleged conspiracy to keep his brother, Robert Searle Livingston, out of the draft. Both brothers are said to be in Salvador. They formerly conducted shoe stores on Broadway and in Pasadena.

Dunn-Beach Wedding.

Mr. Willis A. Dunn, principal of Polytechnic High School, and Mrs.
Wesley H. Beach of Hollywood were married Monday evening at the Hotel Arlington, Santa Barbara, in the presence of ten guests who motored up from Los Angeles. Following the ceremony there was a dinner-dance. In the party, which remained over for a jolly house party, were Judge and Mrs. Benjamin honor was a dinner party, at which Judge and Mrs. Bledsoe were hosts.

At St. Agnes Church.

At 8 o'clock this morning, in St.
Agnes Church, Miss Florence Maers and Frank Sharp will be married by Father Clementina Maloney. The bride will wear a handsome gown of white silk net and silver lace over duchess satin, and her long tulle veil will be held to her hair with orange blossoms. Her bouquet will be fashioned from orchids and lilies of the valley. She will be given in keeping by her father, Mr.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-Datest:

Fringe on every possible garment or bit of millinery.

To have your petticoat to match your lingerie—camisole, envelope, knickers—if your wear all such at once.

Hats of calico or of gingham to correspond with your frock, although not necessarily of the exact pattern.

The Vernon Castle bag—a marvel of novelty—elsewhere described.

For your summer hat, either an entire crown of flowers or a broad band of them around the lower edge of the crown.

Hat, gloves, shoes and hose of the new brown tone, with a contrasting suit or frock.

Capacious handbags of leather in the new shades—gray, blue, tan, beige, brune.

Now is the time to buy:

The needed bolt of longcloth, nainsook, batiste or other white cotton weave for making the lingerie at home. A saving sale is in progress.

Silk gloves for warm weather wear. Prices are less than for kid, and the gloves more comfortable. They are now obtainable in all the shades to match the suit or dress.

The farmerette suit for field work, or just-for-fun. A sale of these so-charming suits is set for Saturday.

Blossoms of War.

Redolent of romance in more ways than one, were the pressed flowers shown to me, the other day. Just received in a letter from over there, by a girl whose interest in them was not merely botanical, these sweet blossoms were from the very midst of the bloody scenes of which we daily read. Plucked from among the wire entanglements, under German fire, by a young engineer, and sent by him in a letter, there was something inexpressibly touching in the brave blossoms, purple columbine and butter cups. They were sent by Sr. Master Engineer, James E. Keith, One Hundred and Seventeenth Regiment, Rainbow Division, a former Angeleno, who stopped for an instant, in the midst of German barrage with shrapnel flying all around, to pluck the tiny blossoms, so bravely putting forth their innocent loveliness in the midst of a very hell of cruelty. Mr. Keith escaped death or capture, but his party, venturing forth for sketches of German trenches, returned with a record of several of the enemy killed or made prisoners. So the dainty flowers bear, not only a message of more than friendly greeting to the girl over here, but hint of the wondrous courage and skill of our boys over there.

That New York Dugout.

Among the many war scenes in store windows for the purpose of adding emphasis to the campaign for war savings, none is more striking than that shown in the windows of a store on Seventh street, which bears the name of the American metropolis.

Realistic to the nth degree, the roughly timbered interior of an under-the-trench abode of our soldier boys, is placarded with messages urging us to do our share in order that life there may be made endurable until the struggle is won. Fairly startling in its rough reality, is this portrayal, especially when we come upon it in the midst of the summery loveliness of women's dainty gowns and millinery—all the paraphernalia of peace, as we know it, here.

Mrs. Vernon Castle's Vanities.

Vanity of vanities, thy name is Mrs. Vernon Castle. Or so it would seem, since so many are the novelties in attire attributed to this beauty. The latest, shown yesterday at that store with one foot on Seventh street and one on Broadway, is the Vernon Castle vanity case. Shaped more like a field glass case than like a hand bag, this novel carrier is of morocco, in a dainty rose petal pink. Lined with satin, it contains a good-sized mirror and all the dainty fittings prised by beauty and calculated to cater to her wants. These new bags will be obtainable in several shades of leather and lined in various tints. The only trouble is that they sell as fast as they come in!

"They Show the Way."

If the amount of attention attracted by a scene is any criterion of the strength of its appeal, that portrayal of the navy's workings, shown in a big Broadway store, will more than do its bit in the stamp campaign. The heaving of the waves, upon which fares forth a realistic looking ship, almost makes the beholder seasick; and yet crowds stand before that window and look and look, as though they saw in fancy pictured all the daring deeds of the American navy.

Hammers Not for Knockers.

Every woman and many men will place among the must-haves, those dainty little nickel-plated hammers for use in driving tacks, or pins, or in pulling them out. The hammers have a history. They were invented by that king of window trimmers in a big store out Seventh street, and invented for the purpose of helping in his decorative work. To drive a big pin here to hold a drapery, or a smaller pin to fasten down the floor coverings, the tiny hammers soon proved themselves to be indispensible. Others asked for hammers, and their inventor—generous of heart—gave and gave. No one who has ever owned one is willing to be without. The demand grew and grew, until someone suggested patents and wholesale manufacture. The patents were granted, and then came the war-beset problem of getting them manufactured in sufficient quantities for the market. Now, however, that question has been solved, and the first display has been made in the store which is the home of their inventor.

His Invitation.

BIG BROTHER'S sale! That is how that store not fifth in anything save name has extended an invitation to the man of the house to enter and help himself and his feminine friends. By thus making the sale a man-size affair, the prejudice against shopping entertained by many men has seemingly been overcome, for many men are there availing themselves of bargains which are so obvious that one need not be "man-size" to see.

Fashion's Figuring.

Organdie collars and cuffs are indispensable to cotton frocks.

Flowers and tinsel are used as trimming on evening gowns.

Large sailor hats have a soft scarf tied about the crowns.

The sports costume is made of black-and-white checked tricot.

The trimmingless frock is the fashionable one of the moment.

Camisole straps are merely strands of pink and blue flowers.

Black dinner gowns are always good trimmed with Chantilly lace.

Cloth coats for small children have short waists and flaring skirts.

Narrow black patent leather belts girdle overblouses and sweaters.

Ruffles and bindings are the sole trimming of some very pretty gowns.

Checked silk skirts are worn with plain charmeuse coats without sleeves.

Large picture hats have scarfs with long ends falling over the brim.

Handkerchief linen and sports silk combined make a charming afternoon gown.

Pale Georgette crepe is the best material for afternoon frocks and dinner gowns.

Capes of Palm Beach cloth, natural color, are being worn with the summer frocks.

Voile is a fabric adapted to so many uses, it is no wonder it is immensely popular.

Collars are very important.

The newest suits are beltless.

Voile is the chief rival of organdie.

Bathing suits are embroidered in wool.

Narrow belts that cross are still good.

Fringe will appear on everything.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Moron Expert.

Dr. George L. Wallace, president of the American Association for the Feeble-minded and advisory expert to the Pacific Moron Colony, has arrived in Los Angeles and will be the guest of the Friday Morning Club at a special dinner party on Saturday evening.

Dr. Wallace has come direct from a Sunday convention on the urgent moron question, which was held in Buffalo. He and Dr. Walter E. Fernold are regarded as the premier authorities on this work in the country and Dr. Wallace will give a resume of the discussions at the recent convention.

The dinner will take place in the Friday Morning Club House on Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock and Dr. Wallace will make his address at 8 p.m. Tickets for the dinner are $1, and anyone interested in the question will be welcomed by the club. Reservations should be made through the club office before 5 p.m. on Friday.

West Ebell Club.

At the last meeting of the West Ebell Club Mrs. Fred Kuck, the president, appointed new committees for next year's work and a round table discussion took place to lay plans for future war service, under the general slogan, "Lick the Kaiser."

The new executive board of the club is as follows: Mrs. Fred Kuck, president; Mrs. Robert Killefer, first vice-president; Mrs. Rees Boutland, second vice-president; Mrs. Tyree Mathews, recording secretary; Mrs. R. B. Forbes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mary Holloway, treasurer; Mrs. W. W. Hopp, curator; Mrs. Bessie McFarland, historian; Mrs. Fred R. Butcher, president emeritus; directors, Mrs. C. R. Church, Mrs. Frank W. Foell, Mrs. Carrie Campbell, Mrs. E. A. Lewis, Mrs. G. A. McCubrey.

Illinois Reunion.

The Freeport Illinois Club will hold a patriotic reunion at Brookside Park, Pasadena, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. All former Freeporters are cordially invited, and should take a box luncheon with them which will be eaten at 6 p.m.

For Federation Officials.

Mrs. F. M. Wills of No. 501 Buena Vista street entertained with a luncheon party in honor of the delegates to the biennial conference of the general federation of women's clubs returned from Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles was the chief guest of honor and received congratulations on her re-election as general federation president. Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, Mrs. O. Shepherd Barnum, Mrs. Mathew S. Robertson, Miss L. C. Schutze, Mrs. R. Gird, Mrs. O. P. Bryant and Mrs. George Nash were also present, and assistant hostesses were Mrs. J. F. Sartori, Mrs. C. D. Lewis and the Misses Hill and Bryant.

HADN'T MET HIM.

Judge Meets Man Who Is Circulating His Nominating Petitions, Two Are Embarrassed.

Judge Houser, who is a candidate for re-election to the Superior bench, and Clerk Williams of the Juvenile Court were walking on Broadway, yesterday, when at Franklin street, a man stepped up and asked them to sign a nominating petition for "Judge Houser."

"I guess I had better not," replied Judge Houser.

But the man was insistent and began to eulogize Judge Houser. His Honor was embarrassed. Finally Mr. Williams said to the man:

"Meet Judge Houser."

It was then the turn of the man to grow red.

DRAMA.

Midweek.

ALONG RECREATION ROW

PLAYS AND PICTURES ON BOARDS AND SCREENS.

Morosco.

Next Sunday matinee will mark the first performance of the sparkling comedy of American youth, "Young America," at the Morosco. The new play is not a war play, but deals, as its name signifies, with that generation which, while composed of the children of today, forms the citizens of tomorrow. "Young America" is the story of a town's bad boy. Charles Barton, who was last seen in Los Angeles in "The Enemy," will be seen in the role of the bad boy. The new piece also serves to introduce to Morosco patrons a new leading man, Robert Ellis, widely known as the handsomest actor on the American stage. "Personality," the current Morosco attraction, will leave the boards on Saturday night.

Mason.

"The Brat," Maud Fulton's bright little comedy, which she wrote herself and in which she plays the leading role, is creating its perennial flow of hearty laughter at the Mason, and will continue to do so for another week and a half. "The Brat" has the tender touch of humanity that makes a universal appeal, and its popularity is undimmed after two years of success.

Pantages.

Literally stopping the show at every performance with their classy jazz selections, the San Pedro Naval Reserve jazz orchestra at Pantages this week is making one of the biggest hits any aggregation of musicians ever made along the local rialto. And the secret of their success is no secret at all to those who have heard the talented sailors, for they offer a line of jazz music that wins the audiences right from the first of their act, until they close with an extremely jazzy "Poor Little Buttercup."

Orpheum.

Big as this week's bill is at the Orpheum, the one opening next Monday matinee shows no signs of falling behind it. The new bill is headed by two of the most popular stars vaudeville ever had—two the pictures briefly weaned away, but who have returned to the fold, rejoicing themselves and making glad everyone else—Carter de Haven and Flora Parker, smart and clever, who will be heard in new songs and will be seen in some new steps and clothes. No one in vaudeville had a stronger hold on popular favor than did this young couple. The stay of Kathleen Clifford is limited to this week, and Wilton Lackaye also is due to close here Sunday night.

Burbank.

Ruth Clifford, star of "Midnight Madness," this week's film feature at the Burbank, will make a personal appearance on the stage of that theater at tonight's performance. "Midnight Madness" is being shown, together with a five-act vaudeville bill. "Midnight Madness" is a thrilling detective story, co-starring Kenneth Harlan and Miss Clifford. It was written by Elliott Clawson and Rupert Julian, author and director, respectively, of "The Beast of Berlin."

Hippodrome.

Billy Knight's roosters are walking away with all the honors at the Hippodrome this week. They display the most unusual intelligence, while Mr. Knight must be credited with a world of patience. The combination makes a good act. Next week the three little Irish girls who are famous vaudeville circuits over for their winsomeness and happy voices, are due to appear. The Three Moriarty Girls are the daintiest "dolls" in the business and you are guaranteed some good singing.

Alhambra.

With the Italians inflicting an overwhelming defeat upon the Austrian hordes on the Piave, interest in this brave country and its courageous soldiers is high and has added greatly to the interest already manifested in that great Italian picture, "The Warrior," with the giant Maciste in the title role, which is now playing at the Alhambra at popular prices. As one New York critic remarked, "He out-Fairbanks Douglas Fairbanks." The titles are in a humorous vein, and were written by the well-known playwright, Jack Lait.

Kinema.

Mary Pickford solves the servant problem and shows how it is done in her latest play, which opens at the Kinema on Friday. As "How Could You, Jean?" in Miss Pickford's farewell play of the season, the Kinema will present it for nine days, starting this Friday instead of Sunday. In the play Miss Mary proves that the life of a cook should not be all stew and spuds and onions. Also, that there is nothing heavenly about hash. Spottiswoode Aiken, Herbert Standing and Fanny Midgley are the excellent cast with Miss Pickford.

Grauman's.

Marguerite Clark, cast as Prunella in the Artcraft photoplay of that name now playing at Grauman's, is enabled to bring to the surface and display her innermost talents as an actress. This photoplay from the pens of Granville Barker and Laurence Housman is a dainty and quaint little story running stronly in the environs of romance. The photoplay is strongly reinforced by musical selections by the symphony orchestra and Carlo Bravo especially chosen for the occasion. The coming attraction is William S. Hart in "Selfish Yates."

De Luxe.

The most versatile star in motion pictures, a highly successful director, a company of distinguished players in the leading supporting parts, a story written by an authoress whose works hold the most exalted position in screen literature, all assembled in a production which is mounted with the same perfection that has stamped all former Paralta Plays, this is the combination promised for two days, commencing June 27, at the De Luxe Theater, where Bessie Barriscale will be the attraction in Grace Miller White's romantic story, "Rose o' Paradise." Saturday, William Russell in "Hearts or Diamonds?"

Miller's.

"A Woman of Redemption," a stirring and human heart interest drama starring beautiful June Elvidge and Fay Tincher in the first comedy produced by her own company and called "Main 1-2-3" are to be the two big feature attractions at Miller's, beginning next Sunday. Besides these unusually fine features, the programme will also include new war pictures, popular and original song numbers, a rapid action two-reel comedy drama, and splendid music on the big organ. That little queen of the screen, Mary Miles Minter, has proven unusually popular this week in her clever, clean and wholesome comedy-drama, "One in a Million."

Tally's Broadway.

Virginia Terhune Van de Water's popular story, "The Lesson," makes an admirable starring vehicle for Constance Talmadge, who appears in the pictured adaptation of this novel at Tally's Broadway this week. The story has to do with a young girl in a small town, who marries a city man, principally because she is tired of seeing the same old faces and dancing with the same old boys year after year. Clara Kimball Young, in "The Claw," pictured from Cynthia Stockley's thrilling novel of the same name, is the attraction for the week starting next Monday.

Clune's Auditorium.

Saturday will see the close of "The Eyes of the World." Beginning next Monday matinee, D. W. Griffith's latest and greatest triumph, "Hearts of the World," will return for another big run. W. H. Clune has been receiving thousands of letters from patrons of the big Auditorium wanting to know when "Hearts of the World" was coming back. It has been hard work to get a second showing of this great Griffith production at this time, as there are several large cities in the country that have not been able to see the picture as yet.

Clune's Broadway.

Here, all you youthful amateur detectives—you who take keen delight tracing mysterious this and that, just step into Clune's Broadway this week, where handsome young Wallace Reid is demonstrating his ability as a second Sherlock Holmes. Reid does some excellent acting, and special mention should also be given to the work of Ann Little, and to that of Adele Farrington, mistress of the House of Silence. Commencing Sunday afternoon, dainty and irresistible Billie Burke will be seen in "Let's Get a Divorce."

Superba.

"The Eagle" will continue to make his nest at the Superba for only three days more, and those who wish to see this latest Bluebird photoplay starring Monroe Salisbury had best make a hasty pilgrimage to the Fifth and Broadway aviary. Salisbury has never had a more convincing role. Director Elmer Clifton has jammed the play with thrills that work up to a climax of rare intensity, and that screen craftsman Henry Christeen Warnack, author of "The Honor System," has created from Ethel Hill's original story, a drama that is vibrant with human emotions. On Sunday Carmel Myers will be seen in "The City of Tears."

Symphony.

Elaborate preparations are being made at the Symphony for the grand reopening week commencing Sunday. As magnets to lure screen devotees to see his new carpets, draperies, etc., Manager B. C. Steele has booked a programme of unusual length, and made up of the best-known stars in America. Louise Glaum in the sensational international drama, "An Alien Enemy," by Monte Katterjohn, is the dramatic attraction, while Marie Dressler, in "Fired," shares comedy honors with Harold Lloyd and Bebe Daniels in "Kicked Out?" Harold Lockwood, in "Lend Me Your Name," is the dramatic attraction for the remainder of this week.

Garrick.

Fatty Arbuckle as a demure little lady nurse with a finger in "her" mouth—Fatty Arbuckle as a genial "stew" lighting a cigarette in a driving rainstorm—Fatty Arbuckle in a sanatorium where doctors with big heartless saws and beautiful girl patients alternately pacify and terrify him—and that's part of "Good Night, Nurse!" which shows at the Garrick next week. While showing the most corpulent comedian in the world, the Garrick will also show the most diminutive comedienne in the world in the person of Baby Marie Osborne, who plays in "A Daughter of the West." This week "Doug" Fairbanks is yip-yip-yipping in "Manhattan Madness."

Riviera.

A brief fling in the gay brightness of the big city—and then back to her quiet little nest as the wife of a railway telegrapher on the desert—that epitomizes "Station Content," which is showing with Gloria Swanson at the Riviera this week. While the little ex-housewife was in the chorus she attracted the president of the railroad her husband had slaved for, and he made her a startling proposition. A town that won a village from the Boche, and did other splendid things, too, is told about next week in Earl Derr Biggers's, "The Gown of Destiny," in which Alma Reubens returns to the screen.

Palace.

That romance of the borderland, "Heart of the Sunset," Rex Beach's classic melodrama, will be shown at the Palace today, tomorrow and Saturday only. "Heart of the Sunset" is a typical story of the Southwest, of American cowboys and Mexican bandits, of a woman fence-rider and a soldier-adventurer. The strip of film showing for the actor's fund is a whole heaven of constellations, as more stars appear in it than any similar picture ever photographed before. "Bill" Hart and Charlie Chaplin both appear on next week's bill, in addition to a Christie comedy.

FLASHES.

Hits and Bits.

TO SIGN NEW CONTRACT.

MARY PICKFORD RESTS BEFORE ACCEPTING ANY OFFER.

By Grace Kingsley.

Yesterday for the first time in more than two years Mary Pickford struggled along without a large, healthy contract in the family safe, her contract with Artcraft having expired on Wednesday, and no new one being signed.

The reason Miss Pickford signed no contract all day yesterday was not lack of contracts to sign, but an embarrassment of riches in the way of contracts placed before her, according to authentic report. To just what contract her funny little wriggly signature will finally be affixed remains to be seen. It is understood that Goldwyn is one of the highest bidders for Miss Pickford's services, and that something like $20,000 a week has been offered her by that firm; Artcraft is known to have made several offers, one of which involved straight salary and another an agreement by which she would make her own pictures selling to Artcraft in the same manner in which Charlie Chaplin sells his pictures to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. It is likewise reported that the First National Exhibitors' Circuit has been dickering tentatively with Miss Pickford, it being known that Miss Pickford and Harry Schalbe, secretary and manager of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, who at present is visiting T. L. Tally, vice-president of that organization, held a conference yesterday. It is likely that a week will pass before Miss Pickford makes up her mind.

Miss Pickford is going to take a month's vacation, and for the purpose has taken a house at Santa Monica.

"I'm going to rest for a month," said Miss Pickford yesterday, "and, then I'm going to buy a house. I have two in view, both beautiful places, one in Hollywood and the other in the Wilshire district. I have wanted very much to build, but we have discovered this would be inconvenient at this time, especially as the lease of our present house has expired, and mother, sister Lottie and I want to be settled."

Dorothy Gish Soon.

Dorothy Gish will return home from New York next Saturday. She is to start work at once on her first Paramount production, and will work at the Griffith studios on Sunset boulevard. Elmer Clifton is to direct.

FELLOW CITIZENS!

What are you doing about legislative and Senatorial candidates in your districts? Are you awake or asleep? Are you going to permit weaklings and cheaplings to make the State's laws and manage the State's finances in these war times, through your apathy? Do you enjoy your high taxes?

THE LYING HUN.

Bulletins scattered over the western front by German airplanes declare that German air raiders are terrorizing the United States, and have bombed cities as far west as St. Louis, and that the people of the eastern cities have taken to cellars. French newspapers have reproduced the bulletins in comic supplements. When the Germans wish a thing were true they immediately declare that it is true and try to deceive everybody else.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

A local theatrical manager kicked a member of the "flying squadron" when the latter asked him to sign a pledge to buy War Savings Stamps. The manager had decided he wouldn't buy any War Stamps, but his treatment of the canvasser caused an indignant crowd to compel him to kiss the flag and to promise to buy stamps. It is easier for a slacker to change his mind, these days, than it is for a generous patriot to change a ten-dollar bill.

AMERICANS, ALL!

America, the melting pot—sometimes scornfully so-called—is showing on the fields of France a unity and bravery that cannot be distinguished as that of any particular racial mixture. Among the names cited in Monday's dispatch for conspicuous bravery under fire occur: Lennox, Jermaison, Hohl, Aimss-Brown, Nelson, Sugmicki, McCaln and Laube. There is the test when those men of so many different nationalities stand side by side, fighting, wounded and fighting still.

THE APPROACHING STORM.

The murmurings of hungry mobs in Austria are echoed by mutterings of revolt in Germany, mutterings which are reaching even to the soldiery. These facts, taken together, indicate the approaching doom of Prussianism. Is it reasonable to suppose that Germany, for selfish reasons, would allow both the civilian and military population of Austria to starve to the point of revolution if there had been food in Germany which might have been spared to Germany's strongest ally? Well, hardly!

NO WELCOME FOR ENEMIES.

The members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce in London some time ago laid the foundations for the relations between Great Britain and Germany which shall succeed the war. They resolved: "That for a period after the war subjects of countries now at war with the Allies should be prevented from taking up employment or a domicile in Great Britain without special license, and that the government should declare a moratorium with regard to debts due Germans or Austrians." Meaning thereby that if an Englishman owes a German there should be no indecent haste in discharging the debt.

Good enough. Let us resolve to the same effect!

FOR BELGIAN PRISONERS.

Mr. John Moffatt, vice-chairman of the Allied Committee for the Relief of Belgian Prisoners in Germany, has sent a strong appeal to the American press to aid in a campaign for cash contributions to purchase food and clothing for Belgian patriots now languishing in German prisons. Mr. Moffatt says that the numbers of prisoners captured in the recent Hun offensive have made still worse the conditions in German stockades that were already unbearable. German brutality is displayed in the treatment of prisoners as well as in other lines of her scientifically-barbarous warfare. Mr. Moffatt writes that: "The Germans are starving them, submitting them to deadly exposure and persecuting them, always with the intent of exterminating as many as possible." He adds that food and other necessities can be gotten to the prisoners; that the German government permits the prisoners to receive what is sent to them from the outside, hoping that this policy will secure sufficient contributions to relieve Germany of the necessity of feeding the prisoners. Of course all this is contrary to the laws and usages of civilized warfare, contrary to the policy of the Allied countries, where German prisoners are better fed than a great part of the civilian population. But the conditions are what they are, not what they ought or we would like them to be." Belgium has made a heroic sacrifice on the altar of human rights. Her soldiers have fought with rare courage, and few unwounded men wearing the Belgian uniform have been captured by the enemy. Every Allied country should contribute to lighten the Belgian load. The bondage of the nation renders it impossible for aid to come from the Belgian people; so the civilian populations of the Allies must make it a point of honor that the Belgian prisoners are not forgotten. Contributions should be made direct to the Allied Relief Committee, No. 2 West Forty-fifth street, New York City.

KUEHLMANN AND HIS PEACE.

Blocked in the west and beaten in the east, Germany has embarked on a new peace offensive. Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann delivered a carefully prepared speech in the Reichstag last Monday which is evidently intended for foreign consumption. He said that: "In view of the magnitude of this war and the number of powers, including those from overseas, that are engaged, its end can hardly be expected through purely military decision alone and without recourse to diplomatic negotiations." The statement is the first public recognition in the German Parliament that the United States is a factor in the struggle. The response to President Wilson's call for "force without stint or limit" is plainly making itself felt, even in the Reichstag.

Von Kuehlmann then proceeded to give what he termed "a rough outline" of Germany's positive desires in a negotiated peace, they are as follows:

> We desire for the German people and our allies a free, strong, independent existence within the boundaries drawn for us by history. We desire overseas possessions corresponding to our greatness and wealth; the freedom of the seas, carrying our trade to all parts of the earth. The realisation of these aims is absolutely vital and necessary to Germany.

Von Kuehlmann's speech is more conciliatory to the western powers than any other that has been delivered in the Reichstag since the beginning of the war. For the first time the blame for starting the European conflagration was laid at Russia's door. Von Kuehlmann has discovered that it was the Czar who plotted and started the war; that he was ably seconded by France, and that Great Britain was third to join. This is an evident attempt to placate Great Britain and the other Saxon peoples. It is significant that the report of Von Kuehlmann's speech was accompanied on the cable by the report that the former Czar had been murdered.

Later cables convey the information that the attempt to lay the blame on Russia has roused a storm of protest in Germany itself; that Von Hertling was forced to come to Von Kuehlmann's rescue; and that the two were unable to explain how the government happened to lay the blame on England for three years and then to shift suddenly to Russia. The people are naturally indignant that their own government should have deceived them for so long a time.

II.

Taken as a whole, the peace address of Von Kuehlmann is an attempt to make terms with the Allies on the west in return for a free hand in Russia and the Balkans. Von Kuehlmann treated the Belgium question as a mere detail. "We must decline to make, as it were, a prior concession by giving a statement on the Belgian question that would bind us without in the least binding the enemy." If this is a war of principle, such a proposal must be rejected by the Allies with contempt. If the war is, as the Junkers seem to consider, a game of barter and exchange, if the Allied nations are to go to the peace conference like housewives with their baskets to the public market it might be worth considering. It seems impossible for the Junker intellect to conceive that peoples can fight for something nobler than personal profit.

When Von Hertling came to Von Kuehlmann's rescue, he regretted that President Wilson had not seen fit to pursue further the question of a peace based on four fundamentals which the President proposed and Von Hertling accepted on the part of Germany. Von Kuehlmann and Von Hertling added jointly to this statement. "In the present stage of development, far-going advances on the road to peace can hardly any longer be expected from public statements which shout at each other from the speaker's tribune."

This reference to the "four fundamentals" relates to President Wilson's message of February 11. As these fundamentals will evidently play a prominent part in future peace negotiations they will bear repetition.

> That peoples and provinces are not to be bartered about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were mere chattels and pawns in a game now forever discredited of the balance of power.
> Every territorial settlement involved in this war must be made in the interest and for the benefit of the populations concerned and not as a part of any mere adjustment or compromise of claims among rival states.
> That all well defined national aspirations shall be accorded the utmost satisfaction that can be accorded them without intruding new or perpetuating old elements of discord and antagonism that would be likely in time to break the peace of Europe and, consequently of the world.

Premier Lloyd George has accepted these fundamentals on the part of Great Britain, adding only that "The peace concluded must be a just and lasting peace." The British Premier and Mr. Balfour, Foreign Secretary, have expressed themselves as willing to consider on its merits any offer of peace from Germany that bears the marks of genuineness. In an address delivered in Edinburgh Lloyd George said that the "peace extremist" and the "war extremist" are equally to be avoided; "the path of sanity a government ought to tread lies between these two extremes." The attitude taken by the Entente governments is that every offer of peace summarily rejected strengthens our enemies. Commenting with approval on Lloyd George's attitude towards peace, the London Saturday Review observes, "A swashbuckling attitude neither inspires confidence nor awakens fear. . . . As soon as our political leaders are offered the opportunity to secure the safety of England by other means than shell fire, the country expects them to take it."

III.

While the Allied peoples hold themselves in readiness to consider any genuine peace offer from the enemy, they are not permitting the relaxation of their application of force. They have forgotten none of the crimes that the Hun has committed and they are determined to teach him once for all that such crimes may not be done with impunity. They are unshaken in their resolutions that such enormities shall not be repeated. France must be protected from future inundations of the Huns. The surest method is to make impossible a future gathering of the hordes beyond the Rhine. If that is permitted there will be a time when no leves can control them. The Allies seek to regulate the government of the interior of Germany only in so far as it affects the exterior. Germany has imposed a limitation of armament on Rumania and the Ukraine. She must consent to similar limitation of her fighting strength by the Allies before a peace of security can be concluded. That may cost much blood and treasure, but the Allied peoples are prepared to pay the price.

Bismarck's statement in relation to Alsace-Lorraine may fittingly be applied to the final settlement of the boundary between France and Prussia. "Strassburg and Metz constitute a perpetual menace to Germany," said Bismarck in 1871. "They are the keys to our house. We want them." This in itself furnishes an excellent reason why they should be returned to France. The safety of free peoples requires that the Huns be locked up within their present boundaries. France will prove an excellent jailer, and Strassburg and Metz must be HER keys.

YELLOW SCREENS AND POSTERS.

For the past two or three years producers and exhibitors of moving pictures have taken to a system of advertising never before equalled for its sensationalism. The yellow press in its balmiest days was never a marker to the yellow advertising by which a blase and hard-to-please public was induced to separate itself from the nickel and the dime.

With the rise in popularity of the film vampire there was sounded the crescendo of the photodramatic sensational. When the vamp first appeared, back in the days when Kalem gave us its best and Alice Hollister was all the rage, the public did not quite know what sort of a creature this vampire was. Hence a little explanation on the part of the exhibitors. When one of the Hollister pictures would appear it was immediately advertised on the boardings as containing "the woman of dazzling charms who lures men onto the rocks of ruin." Or possibly if the old-time exhibitor, press agent or whoever is responsible for the qualities of a film were possessed of an unusual imagination such pictures were heralded by the slogan, "The home-breaker. See her lure away the husband and break up the family." Or something else just as choice!

When the titles themselves containing the word "vampire" were unavailable, owing to the fact that the word had been used until it had been worn threadbare, then it was necessary for the producer to find an equally-alluring title for the remaining similar productions. Hence "The Sin Woman," which carried the advertising "see her in fig leaves and French frocks," "Betrayed," "The Hell Cat of Alaska," "The Flame of the Yukon," "The Serpent," "The Tigress," "Tiger Woman," "The Painted Madonna," "A Magdalene of the Gutter," "Hell Morgan's Girl," "The House of Bondage," "Bondage," "The Regenerates," "Her Hour," not so bad in itself, but condemned by its sidepartner, the ad, which featured her "oh-so-beautiful shoulders," and an unmentionable number of others.

Nor was the yellow stuff confined only to the drama of the vampire and other delineations of the scarlet female. Birth control has been advertised; red-light districts have been pictured, featured and even starred; and the filth of the gutter has been transplanted to the billboard. "Damaged Goods" was advertised as having scenes taken at one of the country's leading hospitals. "Birth," itself a sensational title, carried the phrase, "see the actual birth of a child." Bloody and horrible, but too good to be resisted by curiosity-seekers. "Where Are My Children?" was advertised as being "a powerful lesson—a plea against birth control." We were all urged by the billboards to see the girl who paid "The Price of a Good Time." "Idle Wives" stared us in the face for several weeks in succession, while "Scandal" ran rampant for a week or so. Now comes "Alimony," "The Tie that Burns" and "Who's Your Neighbor"? "The Prince's Virtue" was advertised as being a French novelette taken from Snappy Stories Magazine—itself an attraction for a shallow-brained girl, or the weak-sister-sort of youth who makes such good use of himself in and around the public dance hall.

The Times believes that these monstrosities have had their day and that an aroused and cloyed public will take the same stand against them that it has taken against the pro-German press.

NO PEACE NOW—VICTORY.

It has been shown by the war experts of all the Allies, it has been emphasized by President Wilson, it is obvious to anybody who takes the trouble to look at the map, that Germany will really win if she is allowed to have peace on the basis of restitution and indemnity for Belgium and France. Germany herself is intact. She has made money out of the war, chiefly by selling the iron and coal stolen from Belgium and France to Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. She wants peace and is willing to agree to give up Belgium and French territory. But it is dishonorable to listen to her peace talk now. The Allies are in the war to win it, not to make peace with a lot of crooks on anything like terms of equality. If anybody tries to talk peace to you shut him up. Such people are dangerous. When Germany is smashed, then we all will talk peace and rejoice.

A SOLDIER'S FATHER.

Prof. W. W. Campbell of Lick Observatory has a son with whose name the world is familiar. He has just received word that his son has been slightly wounded. The son is Lieut. Douglass Campbell, the first American-trained "ace." A few days ago a friend of the professor—probably Eliphaz the Temanite or Bildad the Shuhite or Zophar the Naamathite—chose as an agreeable topic of conversation the great dangers of the kind of service in which the young man was engaged. We may infer from the professor's answer that Bildad dwelt on his son's youth, and deplored the possibility of a premature end, for the answer was:

"A man's life should not be measured in years, but by what he accomplishes. My son's letters say he is happy to be over there."

That is the answer of the Roman—no, of an American—father. We hear a great deal, though not too much, of the sacrifice our boys are making, and a great deal, though not too much, of the heroic patriotism of their mothers. We do not hear much of father. It is well to remember occasionally that he is doing his bit, too.—[New York Times.

"CARRY ON!"

The war has given currency to many words and phrases, and attached to them in some cases new shades of meaning—as in "carry on." In accounts of air raids on London we were told that while bombs were dropping near the theaters and there was a stir among the audience, there was heard the call "Carry on!" and the performance continued. The soldier in the trenches "carries on."

The earliest use of the phrase in the modern sense that the writer of this has been able to find is in "Hudibras:"

"And is this all? Is this the end
To which these carryings-on did tend?"

Shakespeare's use of the phrase "carry on" does not come under the classification in which it is now used, but merely in the ordinary sense, as in "Troilus and Cressida," where it is said of one that he "carries on the stream of his discourse."

The dialectic use of the phrase refers to behavior or conduct, and generally in a bad sense.—[New York World.

The Kaiser has accomplished one thing—he has caused Col. Roosevelt and William Howard Taft to shake hands.

You Son-of-a-Hun, Say "Democracy."

DROLL STORIES.

Strategy.

All strategists are not in the army. This proves it. H. A. Clark, a veteran of the Civil War, living in Owensville, inquired of a poultry and egg dealer the price of eggs.

"Thirty cents a dozen," was the reply.

"How much are cracked eggs," asked Mr. Clark.

"Fifteen cents a dozen," came the reply.

"All right. Crack me 30 cents' worth," said Mr. Clark.—[Indianapolis News.

Valuable Monkey.

An Italian organ grinder possessed a monkey which he "worked" through the summer months. When the cool days came his business fell off and he discontinued his walks and melodies.

An Irishman of his acquaintance offered him a crown for the privilege of keeping and feeding the little beast. The bargain was made for a month. Great curiosity filled the mind of the Italian, and at last he went ostensibly to see his pet, but really to find out what possible use Pat could make of the monkey. The Irishman was frank.

"It's lofke this," he said. "Oi put up a pole in me back yard, with the monkey on the top. Tin or twelve thrains of cars loaded with coal go by every even'. There's men on every car. Evary man takes a heave at the monk. Divil a wan has hit him, but Oi have siven tons of coal."—[Rochester Times.

Properly Classified.

The son of a rich father decided that he ought to enlist and went to the recruiting station. He was asked his occupation.

"Why-er-well, just running through the guv-nor's money, don't you know," was the reply.

The officer seemed in doubt how to classify him, when a corporal standing near came to his assistance with a brilliant suggestion.

"Put him down as a brass finisher, sir," he said.—[Boston Transcript.

His Nearest Relative.

A southerner in one of the cantonments below the Mason and Dixon line, when called up for examination, was asked:

"What is your nearest living relative?"

"What you mean, 'relative,' mister?" returned the recruit.

"Oh, I mean your nearest living kinsfolk."

"Wal, that's my aunt you're talking 'bout."

Several other questions were answered satisfactorily, when there came:

"In case of death or accident, who shall be notified?"

"My mother," immediately came from the selectman.

"But you told me just a few minutes ago that your aunt was the nearest living relative that you have," objected the officer.

"You asked me who my nearest living kin was, didn't you? Wal, that's Aunt Liz—she lives jest two miles from where I been livin'; mother lives five."—[Memphis News Scimiter.

He Was Disappointed.

United States Senator Howard Sutherland of West Virginia tells a story about a mountain youth who visited a recruiting office in the Senator's State for the purpose of enlisting in the Regular Army. The examining physician found the young man sound as a dollar, but that he had flat feet.

"I'm sorry," said the physician, "but I'll have to turn you down. You've got flat feet."

The mountaineer looked sorrowful. "No way for me to get in it, then?" he inquired.

"I guess not. With those flat feet of yours you wouldn't be able to march even five miles."

The youth from the mountains studied a moment. Finally he said: "I'll tell you why I hate this so darned bad. You see, I walked nigh on to one hundred and fifteen miles over the mountains to git here, and gosh, how I hate to walk back!"—[Everybody's Magazine.

Helping Him Out.

A man stopped at a news-stand one morning who seemed to have hazy ideas of just what he wanted. He looked at stationery and he looked at playing-cards and he looked at pencils. He inquired the price of this magazine and that, and examined the postcards and the books. The young woman who was in charge of the counter became rather wearied answering questions without making a sale. At last the prospective customer asked:

"Have you any fly paper?"

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply. "We have the Aeroplane Journal and the Aviators' Gazette."—[Harper's Magazine.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE ONE INTEREST.

I went last night to see the show,
a play I've long adored; but little Eva's tale of woe just left me feeling bored. I saw Eliza cross the bay, but felt no pleasant thrill; for
I was thinking of some way to can old Kaiser Bill. And Marks, the lawyer, hewed his gags and failed to make me grin; my thoughts were all of battle flags and swords and martial din. I went to see the baseball game, with cronies three or four;
the pastime's pretty much the same as in the days of yore. But there was little whooping done, although the play was fine, for we were thinking of the Hun, of war across the brine. I knew not which team won or lost, and didn't seem to care; for everything on earth's a frost, save doings "over there." I do not care for printed books, for music or for art; there's nothing now but war, gadzooks, that stirs my weary heart.
I do not care for politics, for statesmen and their spiels, for all their foolish bag of tricks I wouldn't give two wheels. I do not yearn for county fairs, for picnics in the woods; all mortal things are fakes and snares, save war, and it's the goods.
And it alone is worth our while, until our cause is won, until we've canned that thing of gulle, the autocratic Hun.

ROMEO'S UNDERWORLD

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Jessica reported that she had always declared she would never marry a man who wore union suits and, thank goodness, she hadn't. Mary, trembling on the brink of matrimony herself, looked anxious. What was the matter with union suits, anyway? Edith remarked caustically that night shirts, as distinct from pajamas, were far more preposterous. Isabel, with two husbands, three sons and four brothers to her experience, took the floor by unanimous consent. Far, far more significant, said she, was the length of the gentleman's shirt. If women could only appreciate the peculiar psychological indications of character as evinced in the cut of the masculine shirt they would never accept Romeo on his face value without very exact information on the subject. Not that the preference for union suits could be safely ignored altogether; but the shirt (that garment which, under so many circumstances, may, with all discretion, frequently meet the public eye, albeit not in its entirety) holds indubitable evidence of character and temperament most valuable to the intelligence department of marital harmony.

The subject obviously calls for urgent investigation. In this day and age our sex must not be hampered with ignorance. At the very outset of our studies we were confronted with the complications of the international shirt question. French masculinity, for instance, craves lots of shirt. Yards of it. It reaches well below the knee and calls for the most careful adjustment beneath the trousers to avoid lumps. The Englishman is satisfied with rather less, but he, too, demands at least enough material to sit on. No Englishman feels respectably clothed who cannot sit on his shirt. The American, on the other hand, has an inherent objection to sitting on his shirt. He frankly prefers the coat variety that ends early below the belt. The Frenchman steps into his shirt and draws it upward to his shoulders. The Englishman struggles into his from the hem upwards, throwing his arms aloft, missing the sleeves the first try with traditional bunging, swears a bit and finally gets it down over his head with a sense of triumphant victory. The American puts his on like a coat and whistles nonchalantly.

So far so good. But, according to ancient oriental tradition, the length of a man's garment is an outward indication of wisdom acquired. Thus in China the peasant wears the briefest of short shirts; the merchant gets knee length; the scholarly sage wears a garment to the very ground. Savages, of course, wear a mere loin cloth. Voila, the more voluminous and inconvenient the garment, the greater the culture. Ahem! Vive la France! The Russians, of course, wear their shirts outside and only tuck them in when they have achieved sophistication. But they like a lot of shirt.

This might appear to put the carefree American in the savage class. But no! For the American declines to sit on his shirt, but he has added superlative perfections above the waist line. He has niceties of detail which reek of civilization and are valuable aids to calm self-control. His is a synthetic shirt combining freedom and the simple life with all the adornments of civilization discreetly displayed. The Englishman, as befits the subject of a democratic monarchy, compromises. He just sits on his shirt, but no more, and shines at his best under a soupcon of adversity and struggle. The Frenchman liberally retains all the trappings of culture and his brilliant manipulation of them, without disorder or undue ostentation, is a token of his genius. Russia, on the other hand, has the cultured shirttail; but, like her literary geniuses, believes in stark realism and the brutal truth. Tucking in a long shirt is glossing o'er the facts.

But there is one department in which international masculinity enjoys the brotherhood of man. They are equally diverse in their tastes in the underest undies. The union suit, the B.V.D., the undervest, the drawers may be met with in all civilized countries under different names. The union suit for which Jessica has such a marked aversion is all enveloping. It reaches the ankles and the wrists, and buttons high in the neck. The man that wears them usually gargles every night and airs his socks. Hence he lacks glamor as a husband. The one-button affair, which terminates at the knee, gives better promise of a reasonable spouse. The separate undervest and cotton drawers indicate a possible disregard of hygiene. The scandalous creature who sleeps in his undervest patronizes this combination. He is certainly the man I overheard on the street car informing his friend that it was so refreshing to unbutton his shirt in the morning and dab his chest with cold water! He had tried it, he said, and found it quite a tonic—when he had time!

The nightshirt-vs.-pajama controversy can get very intense. Time was when the pajama, on its first appearance, like the wrist watch, was dubbed "effeminate." The old school of masculinity laughed it to scorn. Nevertheless, a fire call in the middle of the night leaves a man at a serious disadvantage in a night shirt. He lacks dignity. The pajama devotee suffers no harassed rush for man's noble insignia, his trousers, in a crisis. In those tense moments when a man faces the world direct from his downy couch the pajama has indubitable claims to gratitude. The "efficiency" of the pajama is difficult to establish, excepting on colorful grounds. They can be colorful. Character readily displays itself in choice of material and color. Silk and broad stripes would rather suggest vampirate tendencies. On the other hand, flannelette, of modest pattern, reeks of worthy domesticity.

By their undies ye shall know them.

HUNTINGTON TO BUILD LIBRARY.

Larkhill Art Exhibit to be Shown at Santa Barbara.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, June 27.—Henry E. Huntington and Mrs. Huntington are about to leave New York, according to advices received by their relatives here. Mr. Huntington has been endeavoring to come to California for several months, but war work in connection with his shipbuilding and other interests has several times prevented his leaving on the day of departure.

As part of an extensive peace-time programme Mr. Huntington has commissioned Myron Hunt, an architect, to prepare plans for a library building which will house the famous private collection of Mr. Huntington, said to be one of the world's most valuable libraries. Mr. Hunt took these plans East several weeks ago and they await final approval. Several shipments of books have already arrived at the San Knoll estate of Mr. Huntington.

BURGLARS REAP HARVEST.

Professional burglars have stolen silverware aggregating over $1000 in value from two of Pasadena's fashionable residences, it was reported by the police yesterday, one being the residence of Mrs. H. Page Pierce, No. 1045 South Orange Grove avenue, from which silverware to the amount of $400 is said to be missing, and the other residence that of Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, No. 1190 South Pasadena avenue, from which similar articles of the same value are missing. Both owners are in the East.

Entrance was effected at both residences in a similar manner and, according to detectives working on the case, the places bear marks which have left by old hands at the business, the windows being carefully broken and no finger prints left behind as means of identification.

Lloyd R. Macy and W. J. Macdonnell are to spend a month in Vancouver, B.C., and will go north from San Francisco after hearing John R. Mott outline the war aims of the army Y.M.C.A. in San Francisco yesterday. Dr. and Mrs. John Treat Baer also in San Francisco on a vacation. Dr. Baer being a member of the local committee sent to the Bay City to hear Mr. Mott.

EXHIBIT IN OPEN AIR.

Santa Barbara is to have an outdoor exhibit of art that will be unique in the history of the world, according to Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, interpreter of life. Never before in the history of art, as far as the Prince knows, has there been an exhibit given in the open air, but California, he says, it is different. Francis T. Underhill of Santa Barbara has invited Prince Troubetzkoy to exhibit in the gardens of his home and the works of art shown at the Hotel Huntington in Pasadena and at Exposition Park are being shipped there. "After all, there is no place like the open air for real life and grassy gardens and trees and flowers may add a something which art museums detract," Prince Troubetzkoy. He is making arrangements to go to South America following the close of the Santa Barbara exhibit.

OLD WINERY RAZED; ALHAMBRA LANDMARK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, June 26.—The old winery that for so many years stood on Ocean highway, on the southern edge of the city, has recently been razed and not a vestige of the ancient building now remains to mark the site of an enterprise which, thirty years ago, was about the busiest business proposition in this section. It has long been regarded as an interesting landmark, and with its passing goes one of the links that connect the Alhambra of today with the Alhambra of a generation ago.

The building was erected in about 1887 by a man named Betts, who had been connected with the old San Gabriel Valley Winery, the buildings of which are now a part of the plant of the Standard Felt Company. In those days there were vast vineyards all through this section and the business of making California wines, famous over the world, was going good. Gradually the acreage devoted to wine grapes was diverted to oranges, lemons and other crops, and one after another of the wineries saw their business drop away and finally cease to exist in any volume that could be handled at a profit.

The plant down on Ocean highway was about the last to succumb to the changing conditions, and it has been in operation, although in a small way, up to the last two years. Recently it has been used by a concern in the preparation of a variety of fruit juices.

TEACHERS ON VACATIONS.

The closing of the Alhambra public schools for the summer vacation was the signal for the departure of the ninety-odd members of the teaching force to various parts of the country. The bulk of them will spend the vacation period at the various mountain and shore resorts of Southern California, some will attend the summer schools in the north and south, and a few have gone on trips to the Middle West and Far East. Practically all of them have been engaged by the Board of Education for another year's service, and will return for the opening of the schools September 16.

INCENDIARY.

One Fireman Killed, Nine Injured, at Plant of Packing Company, San Diego.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, June 26.—One fireman was killed and nine injured early this morning in a fire believed to be of incendiary origin which destroyed the Steele Packing Company's plant. The loss is estimated at $50,000, covered by insurance. Roy C. Kindlach, fireman, aged 26, was buried under a mass of falling debris and killed. Fire Chief Louis Ahmgren was injured, one leg being cut and his back wrenched by a falling wall. The others injured were assistant Fire Chief John E. Parrish, Capt. John Lambert, Louis C. Gillespie, Stanley Dobson, Harry C. Lemon, Capt. Harry Strasser, Lieut. Sidney Love and William T. Wood, all members of the fire department.

A. J. Steele placed the loss at $50,000, of which half was to stock owned by the American Canning Company, $15,000 to local stock and $10,000 to the building. A wall fell soon after the fire-fighters had entered the building and the second floor dropped on the men. Some were buried in a mass of boxes and cans that fell about them. An explosion was heard before the fire broke out, and an open window left in the plant leads to the theory of incendiarism. The night watchman was ill and not on duty. Some trouble had occurred yesterday with Mexican employees, Steele states.

NAVY RECRUIT UNDER ARREST.

Silas Dusk, New Arrival at Harbor, Wanted at Stockton for Murder.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, June 26.—Silas Lusk, a new recruit at the naval reserve training station, was turned over to the civil authorities by Commander Guy Whitlock today and he will be taken to Stockton, Cal., to face a charge of murder.

Lusk was traced from Stockton by Detective Potter following the murder of a man in that city two weeks ago. The man was held up and killed when his skull was fractured by a blow on the head. Two men participated in the crime and one was captured. Lusk is alleged to be the second man wanted. It is claimed he joined the navy to escape the officers.

WILL BROKEN.

Daughters of the Late Charles H. Sherman Win Contest for Valuable Estate.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, June 26.—The will of the late Charles H. Sherman has been broken in a contest brought in this city and San Francisco by his daughters, Marion L. and Sarah L. Sherman. The deceased left $180,000 in securities and real estate valued at $200,000 in trust to found an aged woman's home here.

The daughters at once began the contest to break the will, on the ground that their father was incompetent at the time his last testament was made. He had been married three times, and wished to found the home in memory of his second wife.

The trustees under the will yesterday formally turned over to the two daughters all the securities owned by the estate, following a decision handed down by Judge Trout at San Francisco last week, the court holding that the testator was incompetent.

REDONDO PREPARES FOR SUMMER OPENING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, June 26.—The big summer session in Redondo Beach will open officially next Saturday with a two days' celebration. The celebration will commence at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon with a band concert on the El Paseo. Free dancing in the pavilion, a balloon shower and a special programme of fancy diving and swimming in the Redondo Beach bathhouse will be other features of the afternoon's entertainment. Murray Watkins, the 300-pound newsboy, will give exhibitions of pile diving, and Ray Henderson, the well-known diver and swimmer, will dive into the water tied in a large sack and release himself underneath the water.

Sunday there will be band concerts both afternoon and evening interspersed with vaudeville. There will also be a band singer.

CITY WATER SYSTEM PROPOSAL AT BLYTHE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BLYTHE, June 26.—The City Council of Blythe has passed an ordinance calling for an election for bonding a proposed municipal water system. The amount will be about $35,000. The present water supply is derived from a private well system that furnishes an abundant supply of water, but the growth of the town with the building of hundreds of new homes now calls for public service of water.

Water for irrigation purposes throughout the valley is provided by a mutual company, which is supplying cotton growers and ranchers. The water comes from the Colorado River.

ITALIAN RELIEF SHIP; BAY CITY ORGANIZES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, June 26.—An Italian relief auxiliary, in affiliation with the Italian Relief Society in Los Angeles, has been organized here. A chairman has been appointed for each of the three communities on the bay, as follows: Mrs. J. P. Gardiner of No. 222 California avenue, for Santa Monica; Mrs. Antonina Caproni of No. 2532 Third street, for Ocean Park, and Mrs. R. A. Thompson of No. 101 Paloma avenue, for Venice. The organization is planning on sending a relief ship to Italy laden with clothing and shoes, to which the local branches hope to contribute a goodly share.

VIOLATE ORDINANCE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, June 26.—Under the provisions of its recently enacted moral welfare ordinance, more widely known as the "kissless ordinance," one man and one woman have been quarantined and are charged with conducting a disorderly house on Market street. The quarantining was done under the advice of City Health Officer W. B. Wells. This is the first case of the kind to come to light since the adoption of the ordinance, which was recommended to the City Council by the Military Welfare Committee.

WHITES ARE FISHING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, June 26.—Practically all the white fishermen of the harbor district will be ready to go to sea within the next few days for tuna and albicore, following the bringing in of more than twenty-five tons of the fish here today.

The first substantial catches of the season were made today when the fishermen collected more than $2500 for the fish brought in. Five boats got from one to ten tons of fish and were the March, Fairfax, Minnie F., Maryland and Jupiter.

Three canneries took parts of the catches and went to work putting up the fish, while the remainder of the tuna was sold on the market. About one ton of albicore was caught on hook and line and about twenty-five tons of bluefin tuna caught on purse seines.

The white fishermen have so far failed to take action on the appeal of the Southern California Japanese Fishermen's Association that the white fishermen of Southern California go out on strike with them, and the Italian and Austrian boats are all ready for sea. They have accepted the price of $100 per ton for tuna set by the government, while the Japanese are out on strike pending the outcome of an appeal to Food Administrator Hoover for $130 per ton.

SPECIAL TAX LEVY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, June 26.—Members of the Long Beach Board of Education today decided to request the County Supervisors to fix a special tax levy of 15 cents on each $100 valuation in the Long Beach school district, to provide a fund of $45,000 for the erection of bungalows on school property to care for the children of the hundreds of incoming families. It was decided to provide additional accommodations at the Daisy, Atlantic, Carroll Park and Burnett schools. An increased enrollment in the grammar schools to the extent of at least 1000 is expected next fall, and the schools were overcrowded during the term just ending, making it imperative that some step be taken to provide more room before the opening of the fall term in September.

EMERGENCY COURSES.

War emergency courses will be established at Long Beach High School commencing next week, it was announced today. The new courses, which will include machine shop, oxy-acetylene welding, automobile mechanics, radio buzzer and advanced mathematics, will follow outlines supplied by the government and will be offered only for drafted men not yet called into service, or those intending to enlist in the immediate future.

NEW COMMANDANT.

E. P. Janes was today selected by the Board of Education to act as commandant of the Long Beach Poly High cadets next year. Anthony F. Blanks, who formerly taught in Colgate, O., and Wesleyan universities, and who has been teaching in a Tokio (Japan) university for the past three years, has been added to the local high school English department. In addition to English, Mr. Blanks will teach dramatics and journalism.

"MonVieux, Prends du Fer Nuxate"

This is what you hear "Over There." Even in France they say

"Take Nuxated Iron Old Pal"

As a tonic, strength and blood builder probably no remedy has ever met with such phenomenal success as has Nuxated Iron. It is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. It has been highly indorsed and used by such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Presidential Cabinet Official (Secretary of the Treasury;) United States Judge Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington; Judge Wm. L. Chambers, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation, formerly Chief Justice of the International Court, Samoa; former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towne of Minnesota; former U. S. Senator Richard Rolland Kenney of Delaware, at present Assistant Judge Advocate General, U. S. Army; General John L. Clem (Retired,) the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was Sergeant in the U. S. Army when only twelve years of age; General David Stuart Gordon (Retired,) hero of the battle of Gettysburg; physicians who have been connected with well-known hospitals have prescribed and recommended it. Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of Chicago, says it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician.

Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to excel any preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York, and the Westchester County Hospital says there are thousands of men and women who need a strength and blood builder but do not know what to take. In his opinion there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for enriching the blood and helping to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron which was used by former members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, and other prominent people with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by The Owl Drug Co., Dickinson Drug Co., B. & B. Drug Co., Boswell & Noyes, Jess Ayres Co., and all druggists.

STEEL LEADS VIGOROUS UPTURN IN WALL STREET.

Equipments, Motors and Shippings are Feature of Buoyant Move.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 26.—The hesitant tone of the stock market in the early stages of today's session suggested an expansion of the short interest, but prices advanced vigorously later, with almost a buoyant close.

U. S. Steel at an advance of 1¼ points to its maximum quotation of the month, and two to five-point gains in other equipments, motors and shippings featured the very active movement of the last hour.

Reading also was a factor, showing consistent strength at an extreme rise of almost 2½ points and secondary coalers, as well as strangers and cotton carriers moved more leisurely but the general railway list lagged.

Other conspicuous features of strength embraced Mexpas. Motors, which rose seven points with a moderate setback at the end, and Central Leather and Atlantic Gulf, although shippings, as a class, were irregular.

Oils contributed to the variable movement of the mid-season, their improvements being ascribed to better conditions across the Rio Grande. Tobaccos went through a process of realizing, Sumatra reacting almost three points, but closing unchanged. Sales amounted to 646,000 shares.

Foreign military and political developments were less engrossing, but Wall street was interested in the sudden appearance of Russia's former Premier in London and his prophecy of that country's re-entrance into the war.

The foreign exchange market was listless, Italian remittances again showing no material alteration. Shipment of $3,000,000 gold to Chile represented purchases of raw supplies from that country.

Liberty Bonds were firm, but international issues, including French municipals, moved irregularly within narrow limits. Total sales, par value, aggregated $6,350,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Ruling.

REVERSES SELF IN PLOT TRIAL

Judge Bledsoe Sets Precedent in Federal Courts.

Admits Testimony After the Final Arguments Start.

Howenstine-Kennedy Verdict Delayed by Action.

Federal Judge Bledsoe created what may be a precedent in Federal jurisprudence yesterday by reversing a decision previously made by him and permitting defense counsel to introduce character witnesses in the Howenstine-Kennedy-Leroy draft conspiracy trial after closing arguments had begun.

The day previous the court had denied the motion of Attorney Earl Rogers, who wished to bring in a number of witnesses to testify to the good character of Joseph Leroy, Sr., father of the defendant. Yesterday the court acquiesced to the arrangement after Attorney Rogers had put the motion in a different form. These witnesses will take the stand today, thus interrupting closing arguments on both sides.

In a closing argument before the jury, Assistant United States Attorney Palmer late yesterday afternoon severely arraigned defendants and defense witnesses in the conspiracy trial. He took to task Attorney Earl Rogers's move to place character witnesses on the stand today on behalf of Joseph Leroy, Sr.

"It is Mr. Rogers's purpose to bring here persons of wealth and fashion from Hollywood—neighbors of the Leroys—to awe members of the jury by the majesty of money," Mr. Palmer declared vehemently.

The government attorney in a three-hour address accused the defense attorneys of having "lugged" an immeasureable amount of outside evidence into the trial "to confuse the jury with the real issues involved in the case." He said "clouds" of experts had been introduced to show young Leroy's various illnesses, all of which were not relevant to the case at all.

Dr. Frank T. Howenstine was exonerated by Mr. Palmer as an optometrist who had devoted himself to the study of the "bad" instead of the "good" of his profession, and who "made" instead of "diverted" evil.

Mrs. Idell Kennedy, the third defendant on trial for Espionage Act violation, was manifestly unnerved by the address of the government counsel, and throughout the day buried her head on the shoulders of her husband, who has stood by her during the long trial.

The court announced on the resting of counsel for both sides yesterday morning that each side would be allowed six hours in which to close. Attorney Paul W. Schenck for Dr. Howenstine will follow Mr. Palmer, and in turn will be followed by LeCompte Davis, representing Mrs. Kennedy, A. I. McCormick and Earl Rogers for Leroy and Frank Domingues for Howenstine. Gordon Lawson, who has conducted the case for the government, will close for the government. The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

ALIEN SLANG PUZZLES JUDGE.

Japanese Libel Suit Hinges on Meaning of Word, "Gomakusu."

Whether "gomakusu," as used by The Morning Sun, a Japanese newspaper, means embezzlement or mismanagement, is the delicate issue that is put up to Judge Hewitt in the trial of the $50,000 libel suit of Rev. Junjo Izumida against the publication. Dr. H. H. Guy, who is now attached to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, but for many years a Japanese college instructor, testified yesterday that "gomakusu" did not mean embezzlement, but conveys the meaning of juggling or mismanaging. It is a colloquial Japanese expression and means any act done "to make a thing appear what it is not," he stated to the puzzled judge.

Rev. Izumida, who recently won a suit before Judge Valentine which was brought to test his right to hold the pulpit in the local Buddhist Mission, says the article accused him of embezzling the offerings of the mission and as such is false and malicious.

NEW HOPE IS SEEN FOR CITY PROJECTS.

CAPITAL ISSUES BODY WILL INTERFERE WITH SMALL IMPROVEMENTS.

A ray of hope was given persons interested in public improvements yesterday, when official word reached here from the Capital Issues Committee at Washington that it will not pass upon contemplated projects costing less than $100,000, this duty having been transferred to the subcommittee which has its headquarters in San Francisco. Los Angeles having representation in the subcommittee, it is the opinion of the city officials that a great many improvements over which much apprehension had been felt will be permitted.

The information was sent to J. F. Sartori, member of the subcommittee, who transmitted it to City Attorney Stephens. The latter delivered the welcome news to the Council and was given permission to alter the report he had prepared to send to the Capital Issues Committee.

Several weeks ago the City Attorney was informed that the Capital Issues Committee would pass upon improvements aggregating $100,000 in cost, but yesterday's message was to the effect that there may be no limit to the improvements just so none of them costs more than $100,000.

That the Capital Issues Committee will decide upon all improvements costing more than $100,000 was made plain. This means that this committee will investigate the proposed Second-street tunnel project, West First street paving, opening of Broadway and Hill streets and several other larger projects.

Councilman Mallard said he had been informed that the Capital Issues Committee intends to appoint a subcommittee for Southern California. City Attorney Stephens had heard the rumor, but said he had received no confirmation of it from Washington. It is the hope of the Council that a local committee be appointed. The members are not overly enthusiastic over presenting their plans to a committee of northern men.

Flying Colors.

LOS ANGELES RECRUITS PASS TESTS AT KEARNY.

Less Than Four Per Cent. of Eight Hundred New Men Discharged.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMP KEARNY, June 26.—More than 800 of the new men at the recruit camp, mostly from Los Angeles and vicinity, went through the various army tests today and came out with flying colors. Only 3.6 per cent. of this number received discharges; which is low, considering that as high as 18 per cent. have often failed to pass the medical boards. Tomorrow, it is expected, that at least 1000 men will take these tests with the assistance of music from the band of the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Infantry.

The Los Angeles contingent were the first to line up for examination. They first appeared before the personnel board, where their fingerprints were taken. Then they were told to undress. Their weight and height were taken, their service records checked to see that they had all records they needed and they went before the general medical board. Following this they went before the neuro-psychiatric board, known popularly as the "nut board." Here they ask such questions, as: "Anybody in your family crazy?" "Do you have fits?" "Are you nervous?" and many other things of a personal nature.

ALL SORTS OF TESTS.

The medical examiners then test the eyes, ears, heart and lungs and feet. When a man leaves the orthopedic, or feet, examiners, his shoe measure is registered and the proper size of his shoes are sent forward. When he comes to draw his shoes, the footgear is merely handed to him, as the measure is already taken. If he wears size ten, that's what he gets. After that the man is sent to the observation tent, the discharge tent or the tent where he is inducted into the service.

The last was the busiest today. There Capt. Kenneth B. Turner, chief medical examiner, affixes his signature to the man's record and when Capt. T. H. A. Tiedemann puts his name on also, the man is a soldier. Both of these men had to sign their names 800 times today and have 1000 staring them in the face for tomorrow. But through the activities of Col. Edmund C. Abbott, commander of the military police, and commandant of the recruit camp, they will do this to music, hereafter, as arrangements have been made to have every band in the division furnish music one day a week at the camp.

"SHOT IN THE ARM."

After a man has been inducted into the service, he gets his "shot in the arm," or inoculation for typhoid and paratyphoid to the tune of "The Grizzly Bear." He also gets the vaccination to the same tune. By this time he has acquired several pieces of his clothing and completes the dressing operation in the company street.

Today's activities at the recruit camp were signalized by the arrival of 1100 men from Sacramento Valley. They brought the California quota up to 3728. The men arriving today came in a happy spirit and with the feeling of co-operation so much desired. They were soon lined up in provisional companies, had received their equipment and made their appearance on the parade grounds.

COLORED MEN NEEDED.

Walters, Cooks and Stewards are Wanted at Once for Service with the Navy.

The officer in charge of the United States Naval Reserve recruiting station at No. 419 South Main street yesterday received a dispatch from the Navy Department to make every effort to enroll colored men for the mess men branch of the navy. Waiters, cooks and stewards are urgently needed for the ships now being launched. Colored men, with or without experience, between the ages of 18 and 35 are badly needed.

Hotel porters, waiters, hotel cooks, stewards, et. al., are the class of men desired. The pay ranges from $35.90 to $52 per month, clear of all expenses, such as clothing, board, lodging, medical attendance and transportation.

LAWYER PUNCHES CAFE MAN'S JAW.

E. RABIN FIGURES IN NEW EPISODE—QUARREL FOLLOWS COURT HEARING.

E. Rabin, operator of the De Luxe Cafe and also of a lingering automobile which is seemingly tagged almost daily by the police, was punched in the jaw yesterday by Attorney Asa V. Call. The altercation took place in the corridors of the Courthouse after a hearing before Judge Wellborn on an application brought by the Guaranty Trust Company to oust Rabin from the Black Building, Fourth and Hill streets. After the hearing, Rabin accosted Attorney Call in the corridor and, according to the attorney, became so abusive that Call gave Rabin a good punch. Rabin and a witness he had brought along, left vowing they would go to the City Prosecutor's office and secure a warrant for Mr. Call's arrest. Inquiry at the City Prosecutor's office failed to disclose that such a warrant had been issued.

Rabin, who spends much of his time in police or civil courts defending actions of various kinds, is due to appear in Judge Chesebro's court on July 10 in connection with a charge brought against him by the owners of the Black Building, charging Rabin with stealing a wall show case. Judge Chesebro fined Rabin $5 on Tuesday for keeping his automobile parked in front of his place of business. Rabin is also due to appear in Judge Frederickson's court next Monday charged with speeding his automobile.

Owners of the Black Building, in which Rabin is running the De Luxe Cafe, have placed a "For Rent" sign in the window of the cafe, but Rabin refuses to leave until the courts order him out, and it was a hearing over this matter yesterday that led to the jaw punching.

TO TEACH AT KEARNY.

British Machine Gun Corps Veterans, Here, Praise American Dash in France.

Three members of the British Royal Machine Gun Corps, who have seen three years' active service on the French front, and now are detailed in an advisory capacity to the United States Army, arrived in the city yesterday, en route to Camp Kearn, where they will give instruction in the latest method of handling machine guns, as practiced on the west front. They are: Maj. G. W. Hall, Sergt. S. B. Cooper and Pvt. Wm. F. Meagher. At the Rosslyn last night, Maj. Hall highly complimented the American soldiers on their initiative and said their behavior in the front trenches was one of the great surprises of the war.

"If it was a surprise to us," he continued, "what must have been the surprise to the Germans?"

WOULD PIGEON-HOLE TROLLEY BUY PLAN.

The report of Chief Engineer Howell recommending that the city take steps to ultimately purchase the Los Angeles Railway and exclude the Pacific Electric from doing local business was referred by the Council yesterday to the Public Utilities Commission.

As Mayor Woodman and other city officials are opposed to the proposed plan, it is not believed that the proposition will be given serious consideration at this time.

George Nash, 13 years old, a schoolboy living with his parents at No. 517 West Eighty-first street, received first and second-degree burns on his back and shoulders when he fell in his home and overturned a gas stove, spilling a kettle of boiling water over himself. The boy was rushed to the Receiving Hospital where he was given emergency treatment and later removed to the County Hospital.

Santa Monica Beach.

GREATEST BALL ROOM ON COAST.

Immense Improvements Plans for Santa Monica.

Col. Lankershim Presides at Banquet for Fifty.

Propose Amusement Center of Vast Importance.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, June 26.—The finest and one of the largest Ocean pier ballrooms on the Pacific Coast, 100 feet wide by 180 feet long, a motion-picture theater to seat 1000 people, built on the Santa Monica pleasure pier, and a number of other improvements, are soon to be erected here, it was announced here tonight at the first banquet in this city of the Santa Monica Beach Association, an organization recently formed in Los Angeles, with a membership of the most prominent and largest resident and nonresident property owners of Santa Monica Beach.

Col. J. B. Lankershim, president of the association, presided at the board spread in the ballroom of the Hotel Windermere-by-the-Sea, where more than fifty members and guests of the organization enjoyed a typical Santa Monica shore dinner and discussed ways and means for not only making Santa Monica Beach the most attractive and successful summer resort on the coast, but also the leading winter home for tourists and those who seek California for permanent residence.

IMPROVEMENT PLANS.

The plan for the pier improvements was broached by R. W. Brown, manager of the C.I.D. Looff interests, that have spent more than $300,000 in previous improvements and are preparing to build an amusement center that will be equaled by none on this coast. The plans received the hearty approval of Col. Lankershim and the other guests present, who included C. L. Bundy, the nonresident vice-president; H. L. Hall, resident vice-president; Gilbert C. Wright of the Wright-Callender Company; Harry Culver of Culver City; O. E. Smith, passenger agent of the Pacific Electric Company; C. E. Kelly, representing the president of that corporation; Mrs. May K. Rindge, one of the largest landed proprietors of property near Santa Monica, the Malibu Rancho; Mayor S. J. Berkley, who welcomed the diners on behalf of the city; City Attorney Victor R. McLucas of Santa Monica, James O. Sword of the Rindge estate, Edgerton Shores, representing the E. P. Benjamin estate, and many other prominent guests, including representatives of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, with its president, Robert White; the Young Men's City Club of Santa Monica Beach, the local Elks' lodge and other local organizations. Mrs. Rosamonde Borde, proprietor of the Windermere, and hostess of the evening, urged the building of more hotels and apartment-houses, declaring that the town was overflowing with high-class guests.

ATTRACTIONS UNEXCELLED.

It was pointed out by Col. Lankershim that there were more than 200 nonresident property owners, many of them of large means, who had hitherto done little to improve their property. It was high time, declared the colonel, that steps were taken to realize on the natural attractions of this beach, which were excelled nowhere in the world. It was the object of the new organization, he pointed out, to build up a large, high-class, resident population for Santa Monica Beach, laying emphasis on the natural beauties of the place, its wonderful beach, the beautiful canyons and close proximity to magnificent mountain scenery. Tonight's gathering, he explained, with the motor ride along the shore that preceded it, was to give opportunity for those property owners who had hitherto neglected the undeniable natural advantages here by refusing to make the improvements that would make these advantages of profit to them, to go over the ground together and then discuss plans for the future while the first impressions of the manifold advantages here were fresh in their minds.

SALT LAKE INTERESTS.

Among the local men, members of the resident property owners' committee, who motored the guests about the city and beach, were F. G. H. Franklin, representing large Salt Lake owners of Santa Monica Beach property, H. M. Gorham, president of the Bank of Santa Monica; Charles A. Tegner, W. J. Stadelman, A. M. Montgomery, Thomas C. Bundy and Charles Robinson. They pointed out to their guests the fact that practically every good house in Santa Monica Beach was rented, that every apartment-house and hotel was full, and that this community was experiencing the most prosperous season in fifteen years. These obvious facts were discussed at length after the dinner, and it was the consensus of opinion that this city was facing an unprecedented era of building and other improvement, judging from the comment made.

MEN GETTING SCARCE.

As Result Civil Service Commission Has to Lower Firemen's Height and Weight Requirements.

To be eligible for appointment to a position in the fire department a man now need weigh only 125 pounds and be 5 feet, 6 inches in height. This was decided yesterday by the Civil Service Commission, which found it necessary to lower the weight and height standards because of a big shortage in the list of firemen.

Formerly a man to be eligible for a position had to weigh at least 137½ pounds and be 5 feet, 6½ inches tall. It was stated at the meeting that the minimum standards for patrolmen may be reduced.

Many of the firemen and policemen have gone to the front and the commission reported that it is practically impossible to fill the vacancies.

DRY HEARING CONTINUED.

The hearing before the Supervisors yesterday on the bone-dry ordinance was continued until July 8, when the parties interested failed to agree on a date when the ordinance should go into effect. Recently the Supervisors agreed that the proposed measure should not become effective against wineries for two years.

FOR THE YARN FUND.

"Our Own Harry Lauder" is to Appear in Cycle of Songs at Canadian's Benefit Affair.

With "Tommy" Hamilton, who is familiarly known as "our own Harry Lauder," in a cycle of songs of his own writing, and various other numbers to make up a programme of pleasing pretense, a benefit performance will be given, tomorrow evening, in the Gamut Club House by the Ladies' Circle of the Canadian Society to raise money for its yarn fund.

Mr. Hamilton, who is both poet and composer, will appear in Scotch kilts, and will sing the following numbers of his own composing: "The Waggie o' His Kilt," "I'm Going to Marry Arry," "The Laddies Who Fought and Won" and "The Flag That Will Never Know Defeat."

Others who will appear are: Mrs. Beth Woodruff Norwald, soloist; Harry Lloyd, boy comedian, and Mme. Catherine Shank and Elisa Foote.

TELL COMMISSIONER TO DO IT HIMSELF.

A request of Health Commissioner Powers that Everett P. Teasdale, an inspector of the Housing Bureau, be investigated was returned to Dr. Powers, yesterday, by the Civil Service Commission. The commissioner inclosed some clippings from a local newspaper in which the character of Mr. Teasdale was attacked and he suggested that the commission investigate the charges. The commission took the stand that it is the duty of Dr. Powers to make the investigation.

SEEKS TO HALT PROPERTY SALE.

Hermosa Beach Woman Says She was Deceived.

Restraining Order is Issued Against Loan Man.

Anti-Usury League Writes a Letter to Ministers.

Continuing a restraining order in force which prevents Waterman and Company, money lenders, with offices in the Merchants' National Bank Building, from disposing of her property, Judge Jackson yesterday continued the trial of the suit of Mrs. Helen E. Berth, hotel owner, to July 5, when her allegations of deceit will be investigated.

Under the court's order, Waterman and Company cannot sell any real or personal property belonging to Mrs. Berth, which they have tied up by notes and trust deeds. It is alleged that the company is seeking to take possession of property valued at $35,000 on loans aggregating $4800.

Mrs. Berth is owner of the Hotel Berth at Hermosa Beach, and needed money to save the life of her son, a hopeless invalid. On May 23, 1917, she borrowed $500 from Waterman and Company, and two months later paid $50 interest on the loan. Needing more money later to pay taxes, she went to Waterman and Company to borrow an additional $800, and was persuaded, she says, to take $3000.

In all, she received from the company $4845, and paid to the company $1190. The rate of interest and notes she was alleged to have signed brought up her liability to the company to about $10,000. Mrs. Berth says she did not remember signing notes to the amount of $9897. She also signed trust deeds covering not only her hotel building, but land around Hermosa Beach and a ranch at Victorville.

She could not keep up the high interest rate, and found that Waterman and Company was going to foreclose. The suit before Judge Jackson is aimed to prevent the sale of Mrs. Berth's property.

LETTER TO MINISTERS.

The California Anti-usury League, which has headquarters at No. 404 Metropolitan Building, yesterday mailed the following letter, addressed to the ministers of California:

"Your attention has been attracted through the medium of the press to many cases of injustice and extortion given publicity through investigations conducted by officials of the State and the California Anti-usury League.

"It is the duty of the citizens of this State, which is known as a Mecca for loan sharks, to place upon the statutes, through initiative ballot, a law regulating the operations of Shylocks.

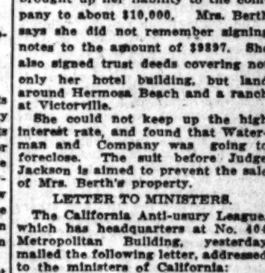
"At this time especially, when many families are in straitened circumstances because the protector and provider has been drafted and war conditions have increased the cost of living to prohibit everything but the barest necessities, the urgency of such a law is manifest.

"We have only about twenty days in which to secure the 100,000 signatures necessary to place this measure on the ballot to be voted on at the next election. For this reason we ask the co-operation of the ministers of the State, who, we feel sure, in the cause of humanity, will be glad to call attention to the measure from their pulpits next Sunday and request the congregations to sign the petitions which will be presented to them. These petitions will be forwarded to every minister in the State within a few days.

"Copies are to be placed also in every newspaper office, club and public building. We ask every honest man and woman to sign these petitions without solicitation, that the burden of expense may not fall too heavily upon the public-spirited citizens who have generously offered to finance the Anti-usury League."

"TIZ" GLADDENS SORE, TIRED FEET

No puffed-up, burning, tender, aching feet — no corns or callouses.



"Tiz" makes sore, burning, tired feet fairly dance with delight. Away go the aches and pains, the corns, callouses, blisters, bunions and chilblains.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet. No matter how hard you work, how long you dance, how far you walk, or how long you remain on your feet, "Tiz" brings restful foot comfort. "Tiz" is magical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, smarting feet. Ah! How comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now from any druggist or department store. End foot torture forever—wear smaller shoes, keep your feet fresh, sweet and happy. Just think! a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents.

Patriotic Reminders

The War Advisory Committee has asked us to remind our customers again—to shop in the morning hours. This distributes the day's business evenly and avoids the necessity for extra salespeople.

—Avoid C. O. D.'s. This does away with the necessity of extra office help and delivery needed to handle C. O. D.'s—a complicated piece of business as compared with a cash or credit transaction.

—Hamburger's desires to obey the request of the Government in spirit as well as letter. You can help us again as in the past.

Yours for victory,
